EASTER HOLIDAY LEAGUE RESULTS, AND TABLES.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT]

London, Last Night.

To-day saw a full programme of Easter holiday matches in the Leagues, the games being followed with keen interest as regards the Championships and the relegations. Wednesday scored a smart win over Blackburn Rovers; Blackpool (Division II) defeated Bradford City; Plymouth (Southern Section) romped home against Norwich; and Stockport defeated Doncaster. In the Scottish League Airdrieonians defeated the Cup holders and League champions — Rangers. Full results:—

ROYAL FLUSH'S TURN TO SMILE.

Tables Turned on President Hall.

ZORHAN'S DEBUT.

Some Extra-Special Dividends.

Glorious weather, and perhaps a paucity of counter-attractions, brought out a big crowd to the first day of the Fourth Extra Race Meeting at Happy Valley yesterday. The meeting will conclude with a programme of ten races on Monday.

The most notable feature of an excellent day's sport was Royal Flush's performance in the fourth race, the Easter Stakes, when with his owner, Mr. A. J. P. Heard, back in the saddle, the roan had his revenge for two previous defeats by President Hall at the Second and Third Extra Meetings. The first time out, it will be recalled, the President won a thrilling race by a short head, but the next time, with Mr. Heard unable to ride, Royal Flush was beaten out of second place by Pickle, President Hall romping home ahead of both to win in a canter.

MR. HEARD'S FINE RIDING.

Only three ponies turned out yesterday in the big event, and it was soon apparent that Chesapeake Bay was "not in the hunt." Mr. Heard rode a brilliant race, and Mr. de Rosa, who rode President Hall, will no doubt be the first to admit that greater experience won the day. Royal Flush hung on to the Hall pony all the way round, and when Mr. Heard called on him at the psychological moment the pony responded gallantly, and "copped" the race, amidst tremendous excitement, in the very last stride.

The time returned was 2 mins. 00.2/5 seconds, which is very little outside Apollo's record of 1.58 put up at the Annual Meeting, and better the record which had stood up to that time (2.02 2/5, by Triumphant Dahlia in 1916).

"Hard to Pick."

Sport, on the whole, was very good, but with a number of the ponies all coming along together, there were not so many "cast-iron" certainties. Dividends were hence very satisfactory. Although Boxing Eve, a hot favourite, "walked" the first race, Imperial Hall lived on matters up in the next by turning in a winning dividend of $138.50, and paying $34.40 for a place. Sunning, which ran third, paid backers $41.40.

In the very next event on the card, Orlando upset the dope by winning in handy fashion to pay $56.10, Abel and The Pheasant, who carried most of the money, not being in the picture.

In the Commonwealth Handicap, Zorhan justified all the nice things said about it by coming home three lengths ahead of Piccadilly. The newcomer from Shanghai showed up

LAWN BOWLS.

"NOT EASY TO PLAY WITH."

A Tilt at "Language" and Short Skirts.

At the Talkoo Recreation Club yesterday the lawn bowls green was formally opened for the season, the teams for the first time including a number of ladies. These received a cold douche later by the President of the Lawn Bowls Association. Commenting on the innovation he remarked that "it is not easy to play with women... there were two difficulties—the first was 'language,' but in his Club was easily overcome as they had a minister as a member; the second was attire, but there was evidence of the skirt taking a more southerly direction."

Mr. K. E. Greig, one of the Vice-Presidents, subsequently remarked that there had been nothing on his rink to take exception to in the matter of

WEL-HAI-WEI RENDITION.

Nanking, Last Night. The Wei-hai-wei agreement having been discussed between the Foreign Minister and Sir Miles Lampson, British Minister, was signed yesterday. The text will be published on Tuesday.—Wah Tsz Yat Po.

"Language." Of course they did not hear what the skirts said to each other at the other end, but if they said anything they ought not to have said, doubtless their remarks were well deserved. (Laughter).

The Game.

The re-dressed green looked very well as the players gathered together at the outset of the afternoon's proceedings to have a group photograph taken by the Wei-chiao Studio for the Sunday Herald and China Mail. There were no fewer than six rinks, which constituted a record for Talkoo's own members. The honour of throwing the first Jack of the new season was entrusted to Mrs. Shaw, wife of the President. The Jack was specially made of aluminium by Mr. G. McLeod and before and after the throw repeated on a neat little blackwood stand.

Only 16 heads were played — President v. Vice-Presidents—but the play was always quite interesting to watch. Some of the ladies proved themselves to be far from novices and many a good word was thrown up by them. There was no big "kill," the highest on any hand being a five in J. Ferguson's rink. Indeed, it was wonderful how low the scoring was as a rule.

THE NORTHERN WAR.

Fighting Expected at Any Moment.

FALL OF LOHOKOW?

Yen Plans Offensive Against National Forces.

Peking, Friday. Yen Hsi-shan has appointed Hsu Yung-chang as C.I.C. and Fu Tso-yi, Sun Teo, Li Fu-yung and Peng Peng-tsz as Vice-Commander-in-Chief of the 3rd Army Corps. As soon as the Shansi troops have converged at Chengchow, Lu Chung-lin and Hsu Yung-chang will then be appointed C.I.C. and Vice C.I.C. of the allied forces respectively. Yen expressed on April 16 his expectation to organise a de jure government to control and direct the militarists.

Hankow, Friday. After the capture of Chunhsien on the northern border of Hupeh, the vanguards of the Kuomintang have been marching down towards Lohokow, and are reported to have arrived at Kuehng, a distance of 50 li from the National forces. Fighting may break out at any moment.

Shanghai, Friday. The advanced troops of the Kuomintang under Pang Ping-huan, who came out from Chingtzekuan Pass, assaulted Lohokow on April 16 but were subsequently driven back by the National troops under Su Chi-teu. During the struggle General Shu wired to General Ho Ching-chun for reinforcements, which circumstance gave colour to the rumour circulated about the fall of Lohokow, which is still in the hands of the National forces. Severe Battle.

Hankow, Friday. Following the issuance on April 15 of the order of general offensive against the National forces, another contingent of the Kuomintang under Pang Ping-huan, who are working southward on the Ping Han line, are advancing from Hsuehchang. According to an unconfirmed report, part of these troops under Liu Yu-ming have captured Nanyang. Another body of Kuomintang under Tien Chin-kai and Chang Wai-shi, after capturing Lucheng and Lunhan, are said to be heading for the Ping Han line to link up with other Kuomintang troops. The National forces under Chiang Ting-wen at Chokolan on the Ping-Han line are now engaging in a severe battle with the vanguards of the Kuomintang, who seem to have emerged from the Nanyang area.

The rebel troops under Sun Tien-ying have commenced to attack Sikhan on the Lung-Hai line, being supported by the Kuomintang under Calcutta Sweep Tickets.

A suggestion that the sale in England of Calcutta Sweep tickets should be prevented unless the promoters of the Stock Exchange Sweep, limiting the scope and character of the sweep was made in the House of Commons by Mr. Dukes.

In reply, Mr. Clynes said that it was understood that henceforth the Stock Exchange Sweep would be purely a private affair strictly confined to members of the Stock Exchange. If it was so conducted and if it did not incur the sale or transfer of tickets or shares of tickets to non-members, he would take no move to initiate action. Anyone, of course, could take proceedings and all legal questions were for the court to decide. He would let the police know his view, but if any other sweep or draw, large or small, was so conducted as not to be of a private character, the authorities would have no option but in the circumstances of the particular case as far as administrative action by him was concerned. The distinction of private or non-private was the test to be applied to all sweeps or draws whenever they were carried on or for whatever purpose.

GOLF

Britain's Walker Cup Team.

Britain's Walker Cup golf team have been chosen. They are:—
R. H. Wethered is the amateur champion of 1923, runner-up in 1928, and tied for open championship in 1921, when he lost on the replay to Jack Hutchison. His big experience in international golf. Represented Great Britain in the Walker Cup in 1921, 1922, 1923, and 1926, and played for England v. Scotland every year since 1922.

C. J. H. Tolley has won the British amateur championship twice, in 1920 and 1929. Is a member of 22 golf clubs, including two in Scotland, the Royal and Ancient and Gleneagles. Has played in five Walker Cup matches and in every match with Scotland since 1922.

Sir Ernest Holderness has also two amateur championships, in 1922 and 1924. He has big international experience, having played in three Walker Cup matches and in six games v. Scotland.

T. A. Torrance, one of the two Scots nominated, has played twice in the Walker Cup tourney, in 1924 and 1923, and six times represented Scotland v. England. In 1924 he reached the fifth round of the amateur championship.

J. N. Smith, a newcomer, whose appearance in the team is hailed with delight in Fife. Last year was Smith's year, when he was runner-up to Cyril Tolley, in the amateur championship. His first international match was v. Ireland in 1923, and last year he represented Scotland v. England. He has done the following holes in 1:—Seventh at Leven, tenth at Elie, and fifteenth at Turnhouse.

Rex W. Hartley is the youngest member of the British team. He was a semi-finalist in the British amateur championship in 1929. In that year he won the Gleneagles Silver Tassie. He has played for England v. Scotland on four occasions.

J. A. Stout, who is also new to the amateur, played for England v. Scotland in 1923 and 1929. He won the English native championship in 1923.

The other three are W. Campbell, R. Harris, and J. Lang.

The Visitors.

The American opposition to the British team will be:—R. T. Jones (Atlanta, captain), Harrison R. Johnston (St. Paul), George Von Elm (Detroit), Francis Outmet (Boston), G. Voigt (New York), Dr. O. F. Willing (Portland), Jesse Sweetser (New York), and Donald K. Moe (Portland).

Reserves:—Roland Mackenzie (Washington) and Mr. McCarthy (New York).

The Record.

1922—Long Island—U.S.A., 8 matches; Great Britain, 4.
1923—St. Andrews—U.S.A., 6 matches; Great Britain, 6.
1924—New York—U.S.A., 9 matches; Great Britain, 3.
1925—St. Andrews—U.S.A., 6 matches; Great Britain, 6.
1926—Chicago—U.S.A., 11 matches; Great Britain, 1.
There was also an unofficial match in 1921, at Hoylake, when America won by nine matches to three.

BOXING

New Flyweight Champion.

Bert Kirby, of Birmingham, is the fly-weight champion of Great Britain, and the holder of the Lonsdale Belt, vacant by the death of Johnny Hill. Kirby knocked out Jackie Brown, of Manchester, in the third round at the Stadium Club. Thus Kirby—who not long ago won The Sporting Life fly-weight belt competition—look complete revenge for his unexpected knock-out defeat at Brown's hands in the Midlands last October. He will be a popular champion. Kirby has been waiting long for this chance of winning fame as he had his challenge to Hill put in quite two years ago, and it was a great disappointment to him and all Midland sportsmen when he went down before Brown so summarily. Kirby claimed then that he was not only caught by a "lucky" punch but that he was dazed by a blow from Brown's head; and he has been boxing in such good form of late, notably in The Sporting Life fly-weight belt competition, which he won, that there was a great deal of confidence among his supporters that he would make ample amends for a previous defeat. This confidence was justified, and it is a coincidence that the contest ended in the same way and in the same round as the other—by a knockout in the third round.

Public Boxing by Police

The Glamorgan Police Committee, by a small majority, decided that it was not in the best interests of the county police force for constables to take part in public boxing contests, as reports of their appearance in the ring tended to lower the force in the estimation of the public and produce a harmful influence on the youth of the county.

Mr. D. Llewellyn Thomas, Stipendiary Magistrate for Pontypridd, who moved the resolution, said press reports of the recent police tournament at the Albert Hall showed that 10,000 people were present. He considered such report were calculated to have a bad effect.

Supporting the motion, Mr. Peter Freeman, Labour M.P. for Brecon, said he was not against sport among the police, but there were very degrading and demoralising influences attaching to boxing, and it was therefore undesirable that the police should be mixed up with them. If they wanted to practise boxing it could be done in private.

Opposing the motion, Sir Rhys Williams, Recorder of Cardiff, claimed that boxing was always recognised as a manly British sport. They might just as well bar football as boxing. With constables able to take care of themselves there would be fewer assaults on the police.

TENNIS

Miss Betty Nuthall.

An old but rigid rule of the Queen's Club, Kensington, which prohibits women playing on the club's covered tennis courts on Sundays prevented Miss Betty Nuthall from playing a practice match in last week.

Miss Nuthall, like all the other leading lawn tennis players, is already in hard training for the forthcoming season, and drove with a friend, Dr. P. D. B. Spence, in her motor-car from Richmond to the Dulwich covered courts for a Sunday morning "knock up." Dr. Spence is too busy to play on week-days.

The Dulwich courts were all engaged and Dr. Spence telephoned to Queen's Club to engage a covered court, but was informed that women were not permitted, under an old rule, to play there on Sundays. Both Miss Nuthall and Dr. Spence, eager for a game, were exasperated at the experience.

It is understood that representations will be made to the committee of Queen's Club on the question of women's play on Sunday.

SWIMMING.

British Team For Vienna.

The English A.S.A. have accepted the invitation of the Austrian S.A. to compete in the European swimming championships which are to be held in Vienna from August 26 to 31. The team of 15 to be sent will probably include swimmers of the Scottish and Welsh Associations.

The Austrian S.A. have agreed to pay 2nd class return fares and hotel expenses from 24 hours before the start until 12 hours after the conclusion of the championships.

RUGBY FOOTBALL

International's Come-Back.

Mr. Christopher Macintosh, who has just down to Austria to take part in the Arlberg-Kandahar ski races, may return to International football next year.

He was, of course, a Scottish International, but a knee injury has kept him out of the game for the past two years. From that injury he has now almost entirely recovered, as might be judged from his skiing achievements in Switzerland this winter.

He is one of the most powerful exponents of that sport, and, indeed, his pre-eminence can be attributed in great part to physical strength. His return to International "Rugger" would be generally welcomed.

With one exception all the results in the Rugby League in last week, were in accordance with general expectations. The surprise was furnished by Wigan Highfield, who won at Batley. Eight of the ten aspirants for championship honours were at home and nine of the ten were successful. Dewsbury being the only one to fall. Their defeat at Oldham was, however, not unexpected. Scoring on the dry grounds ruled much higher than of late, every winning team, with the exception of Wigan Highfield, recording double-figure totals ranging from 13 to 39 points.

ATHLETICS

Cross-Country Running.

J. Suttie Smith, of the Dundee Thistle Club, won the Scottish cross-country championship, at Hamilton, Lanarkshire, his time for the nine miles course being 58 min. 46.4-sec. R. R. Sutherland (Glasgow) was second in 59 min. 8-sec. with S. L. Stevenson (Mekland Harriers) third. Maryhill Harriers won the team championship with a total of 86 points, Dundee Thistle being second with 94 points.

The Welsh senior cross-country championship was won by D. Phillips (Cwmbran), at Cwmbran, J. J. Prosser (Cwmbran) being second. Cwmbran Harriers retained the team title with a total of 51 points. Newport Harriers were second with 50 points.

Finals in University Sports.

The O.U.A.C. were fortunate in having very favourable conditions for the concluding stage of the University meeting, the only thing to complain about being a north-easterly wind, which must have had some effect on the performances, which were generally disappointing. One exception was in the 100 yards in which the American runner, Goodwillie, did himself justice at last by winning a fine race by inches from the Keble, Freshman, Andrew, in 10.5-sec. Andrew came with a tremendous dash at the finish, but just failed to get up. As he had been suffering from a splintered shin he may turn the tables later on.

The mile also was quite good, and produced a most interesting struggle between those old opponents, Pumphrey and Townsend. The latter certainly looked to have the better of it on entering the straight as he was leading by four yards, but Pumphrey, having something in reserve, joined issue 100 yards from home, and got in front at the stand, and won a fine race. Cornes displayed unexpectedly good form, and had he made more use of himself might have beaten the two blues as he finished within a yard of Townsend.

Cambridge.

The brilliant of R.M.N. Tisdall, who was a much better race than the time was not thought to be quite sound, was the feature of the Cambridge University sports. His first event was the weight, in which he was second until the last effort, when he got in 42 ft. 4 in.—the third best effort at a Cambridge meeting. At the high jump he had cleared 5 ft. 5 in. by two totally different styles when he was prevailed upon to retire for a rest before the low hurdles came on. It was well he took this advice, as he was able to beat C. C. Weightman Smith's record by a fifth of a second, returning 24.5 sec. in spite of the fact that he had to make all his own running. He could also have won the quarter, but after running beside L. B. Neame for half the distance he pulled up on the post—a sporting action that gave the event to his friend.

The sprinters had the benefit of quite a strong wind, and L. R. J. Kinkel, one of the most improved runners, did even for the 100 yards. The half-mile sprinter, Gutteridge, knew he had to watch both J. N. Mason and L. Conly, and in the end he beat Mason by only four feet.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL

Three Players Cautioned on Caroline Hill.

SENIOR PROGRAMME COMPLETED.

Junior Championship Still in Doubt.

South China were defeated on their own ground by the Somersets by the only goal scored. Three of South China's players came under the ban of the Referee. Recreio could not keep their fixture with the Club and conceded the points. The Senior Division fixtures for the season have now been completed.

The Navy enjoyed a further good afternoon by netting eight times against Ewo, the latter side scoring once. Chinese "A" just managed to bag the points from the University by the odd goal in three, while South China "A" ran out good winners by five goals to one against Chinese "B."

The Junior Championship is still in doubt, with the K.O.S.B., the Navy and Chinese "A" in the race.

Three Junior games are down for decision to-morrow.

Division I
SOUTH CHINA v SOMERSETS

These teams met on the Caroline Hill ground, after a well contested first half the "Sets" held the upper hand and ran out winners by the only goal of the match.

Mr. F. Smith lined up the following teams:—
South China: Pau Ka-ping; Lee Tin-sang, Lau Mau; Leung Yin-chun, Wong Mei, Leung Wing-chui; Tong Kwan, Tam Kong-pak, Pau Ka-chuen, Leung Wing-tak, Ip Pak-wa.

Somersets: Hall; Niel, Hayward; Hulsh, West, Harris; Rayson, Knapp, Earley, Denmead, Butcher.

An Equal Start.

South China kicked off and were the first to make ground but Hall cleared when things looked dangerous. Rayson transferred play but Lau Mau cleared, and at the other end Hall had to clear a good shot from Pau Ka-chuen.

The "Sets" returned and from Rayson's centre Knapp headed into the goalkeeper's hands. South China transferred and the "Sets" were lucky when Niel cleared after Hall was beaten.

South China were doing most of the attacking and were giving the "Sets" defence a warm time, but pressure was relieved when Pau Ka-chuen fouled Hayward. The Somersets now took up the running, and after a good sprint on the wing Butcher sent across a fine centre, but Earley just failed.

At the other end Pau Ka-chuen when in a good position sent high over, then Tam Kong-pak sent in a high shot which Hall did well to clear. After some mid-field play South China attacked and Wong Mei went close with a strong drive. The "Sets" transferred play, but the South China backs were very safe and soon broke up the attack, setting their own forwards moving. At this period South China had the misfortune to lose the services of Leung Wing-tak, who in running to tackle West, fell heavily and was badly stunned.

From now to the interval the "Sets" did most of the attacking. Rayson just missed with a strong drive, then Denmead, when in a good position, shot weakly behind.

Half-time: South China 0, Somersets 0.

Numerous Fouls.

On resuming South China were still a man short, but were the first to attack. Pau Ka-chuen had bad luck with a fast drive that went just over.

The "Sets" now attacked strongly and Butcher twice went close with fast shots. The South China defence now adopted rather questionable tactics and the "Sets" were awarded numerous fouls. Butcher sent in a fast drive which Lau Mau deflected behind for a fruitless corner.

The "Sets" continued on the aggressive and Butcher sent across a fine centre which the goalkeeper misjudged, and Rayson had no difficulty in opening the scoring.

In the next minute West sent in a strong shot and Lau Mau was lucky to kick clear, then Earley just missing with a fast cross shot. South China attacked and from Tong Kwan's centre Ip Pak-wa went close with a header.

The "Sets" returned and both Denmead and Rayson went close with good shots. The "Sets" held the upper hand until the end but such a good first half, the South no further scoring took place.

It was rather a pity that after such doubtful tactics. No doubt China defenders should resort to they were a man short, but that is no excuse for their defeat. At least five of the Somersets were badly injured before the game ended, and the referee had to caution Lee Tin-sang, Wong Mei, and Tong Kwan.

Result: South China 0, Somersets 1.

Division II

CHINESE "B" v. S. CHINA "A"

Played at the Stadium. Although unable to field a full team, South China easily overcame the home team, who were considerably weakened by the absence of their regular backs. Set Victory lined up the following teams:—
Chinese "B": Tsoi Kim-hung; Wong Sun, Young Kwong-wai, Chow Tai-choo, Tsoi Pong-cheung, Li Ping-ru; Chow Hong-ting, Hui Tai-fai, Chow Wing-hung, Lo Wal-hop, Au Kit-sang.
South China "A": Lau Tai-sang; Peng Chi-sang, Liu Ping-shun; Lo Tan-tai, Chan Yuk-kwan, Ng Po-kin; Lai Kay-hoi, Lau Kwok-lu, Ip Koon-ning.

South China Dominant.

Kicking off with two players short, South China were immediately on the defensive and Lau Tai-sang was called upon to save from Lo Wal-hop. From the clearance South China got away for Tsoi Kim-hung to save Lau Kwok-lu's shot and a minute later Lai Kay-hoi opened the scoring for South China.

From the place kick Lau Kwok-lu went away to centre and Ng Po-kin shot past Tsoi Kim-hung from a sear-riage in front of goal. The Chinese then got away with Chow Hong-ting in possession. He raced away and centred for Au Kit-sang to shoot hard for goal, but Lau Tai-sang saved splendidly and cleared to send his forwards away. Lai Kay-hoi tried a shot which Tsoi Kim-hung cleared. "B" was slow in shooting, and a minute later Chow Wing-hung missed narrowly. On two occasions Lai Kay-hoi got away and broke through, but in each case his attempt was frustrated by Tsoi Kim-hung, who came out to meet him. The Chinese returned and Hui Tai-fai missed a good chance of scoring from close quarters but forced a corner, which was cleared.

Just before the interval the visitors went further ahead when Ng Po-kin went through on his own to finish his run with a splendid shot which beat Tsoi Kim-hung all the way.

Half-time: Chinese "B" 0, South China "A" 3.

A Narrow Escape.

A minute after the resumption the Chinese goal had a narrow escape when Ip Koon-ning shot just past the post. South China kept up their pressure and Ng Po-kin tried a shot but the ball struck the upright and rebounded to the latter, whose second attempt went over the bar.

A few minutes later Tsoi Kim-hung saved a shot from Ip Koon-ning by tipping the ball over the bar, the flag kick going behind. A clearance by Young Kwong-wai gave Chow Wing-hung possession. He ran through to score a splendid goal for the Chinese, but South China got going again and Lau Kwok-lu increased their lead with a hard shot into the top of the net. The Chinese were now penned in from their own half and shots were sent in from all angles, all of which missed their mark until Lai Kay-hoi sent in a shot from a few yards' range, giving Tsoi Kim-hung no chance. Just before time South China, who continued to attack, narrowly missed going further ahead, but Lai Kay-hoi's shot struck the cross bar and rebounded into play.

Result: Chinese "B" 1, South China "A" 5.

UNIVERSITY v. CHINESE "A"

Played at the Stadium. By virtue of their faster play in the forward line the Chinese won this encounter by the odd goal in three. A little more steadiness in front of goal in the second half would have enabled them to have recorded a much more convincing victory.

Sgt. Masters lined up the following eleven:— University: Oppenheim; Ng, A. Reed; Bu, S. Reed, Cho; Chung, Chung, Ling, Wong, Lee.

Chinese "A": Wong Young-sing; Tang Kwong-wing, Wong Sik-pui; Ping, Ng Po-lau, Ng Tak-ting; Liu Kim-chor, Lo Wal-man, Chow Yin-cheung, Shek Pui-tim, Leung Tat-wing, Lee Fong.

Varsity Open Attack.

Winning the toss, and setting the Chinese to face the sun, the Varsity were the first to open the attack, but Wong Young-sing cleared and the Chinese made ground on the right. From a throw in Lo Wal-man centred, but Oppenheim came out and cleared. The Chinese continued their pressure, but a centre from Lee Fong went begging and Oppenheim cleared to send his forwards away, but the Chinese goal was never in any real danger.

The "A" side got going again and Lee Fong centred for Leung Tat-wing to centre across the goalmouth, where Sui Kim-chor dashed in and shot the ball past Oppenheim to open the Chinese account.

Play continued in favour of the Chinese, but the Varsity defence were tackling well although the ball could not be cleared and Lee Fong taking up a pass centred for Shek Pui-tim to head the ball into the net from close quarters. The Varsity then made a visit to the other end, but found a strong defence with the result that the Chinese again took up the running and transferred play to the Varsity goal mouth where Ng headed clear to send his forwards away and force a corner, which was cleared.

Half-time: Varsity 0, Chinese "A" 2.

Good Chance Missed.

Resuming, the Varsity took up the attack, but pressure was relieved when the ball was shot behind. The Chinese got going again and for a few minutes Oppenheim had an anxious time but effected several good saves and Lo Wal-man shot wide when close in.

A few minutes later the same forward missed another fine chance of scoring, when he shot high over the bar.

The Chinese continued to press and Oppenheim, in clearing, kicked the ball against a defender to concede a corner, from which Ng Tak-wing shot hard for goal for Oppenheim to bring off a difficult save.

A few minutes later Leung Tat-wing sent in a shot which just grazed the top of the crossbar. The Varsity then broke away but Tang Kwong-wing cleared well on the goal line, and a few minutes later Wong Young-sing brought off a splendid save, when Chung shot from close range. The Chinese came up again and Lee Fong forced a corner which was cleared for the Varsity to break through, just before the end, and score, through Chung.

Result: Varsity 1, Chinese "A" 2.

NAVY v. EWO.

Playing on the Club ground, Happy Valley, the Navy had a runaway victory, winning by eight goals to one. Referee, Sgt. Bunting lined up the following teams:—

Navy: Bines; Miller, Carter; Vallor, Hobbs, Sorbie; Morgan, Cardy, Potts, Gould, Mackintosh.
Ewo: Lau Hing-cheung; Chung Chun-ying, Lam Ho-yin; Chan Mok-sing, Chang Kam-tong, To Ho-ching; Ho Yan-tim, Kam Shek-wai, Tang Hon-shing, Chau You-fa, Fung King-yu.

Sailors in Winning Vein.

The Navy kicked off against the sun and attacked immediately, but a foul against Cardy relieved the pressure. The Navy returned and Morgan forced a corner which was cleared and Ewo transferred play. Tang Hon-shing got through, though with only Bines to beat he shot wide. The Navy came again and were awarded a foul just outside the penalty area; from the free kick Hobbs scored with a fast drive. Ewo retaliated and after a good movement on the right Fung King-yu scored from close in.

The Navy again took up the running but offside against Morgan spoiled a good opening. They continued to have the better of the exchanges. The Ewo goalkeeper was playing a great game, saving many dangerous shots, before Potts beat him with a well-placed shot. The Navy returned to the attack and Gould had luck with a shot that hit the upright and rebounded into play. Just before the whistle went for the interval Gould had his reward when he scored with a beautiful fast drive.

Half-time: Navy 8, Ewo 1.

Navy Attack Strongly.

On resuming the Navy attacked and Gould again had bad luck to hit the upright with a fast drive that had the goalkeeper well beaten. Ewo transferred and Fung King-yu just missed with a fast shot.

The Navy now attacked strongly but it was some time before they increased their lead. Potts accepted a pass from the right and scored with a fast drive. In the next minute Chung Chun-ying misjudged across the goalmouth and Cardy beat the goalkeeper from close in.

It was all Navy now. Sorbie with a fast drive from well out added a sixth. After some mid-field play Gould beat the goalkeeper with a strong shot. Ewo transferred and forced a fruitless corner but the Navy soon returned to the attack and after some good play on the right Morgan scored with a well-placed shot. From now to the end the Navy attacked strongly but the final whistle went without any further score being registered.

Result: Navy 8, Ewo 1.

Kowloon Defeat the Highland Regiment.

STEADY HITTING.

Splendid Stand By A. T. Lee and Jex.

On their own ground yesterday, the Kowloon C.C. defeated the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders by 27 runs in an all-day fixture.

Batting first, the home team lost three wickets cheaply, but thanks to some timely hitting by the "tail-enders", declared with the score at 201 for nine wickets. A feature of their innings was a splendid stand for the ninth wicket by A. T. Lee (47 not out) and Jex (17), who put together 61 runs. The bowling of the Highlanders was treated with scant respect in the customary K.C.C. style.

The visitors made a praiseworthy effort to pull the game out of the fire, and by batting steadily and patiently, replied with 184. Duff and Taylor put on 64 for the first wicket, Younger contributed 21 and Connell-Rowan helped with 25.

It is noteworthy that the K.C.C. opening bowlers and the "first change" met with no success, but Lyle, Smith and A. T. Lee rose to the occasion and shared the ten wickets between them, the last-named returning the best analysis of 3 for 12. Scores:—

Joe Cattaritch, who each year handles nearly $75,000,000 in race-track wagers, through a perfected calculating system that enables a dozen men to check each other, after which he himself checks all twelve. In addition to racing, Cattaritch is a strong backer of Canadian hockey and is also known as the "Tex Rickard of Montreal." Although he scarcely appears in the public prints, he is known as the controlling force of the boxing game in the Canadian metropolis.

WHO WILL PLAY?

Britain's Davis Cup Team.

A. Wallis Myers writes in the London Daily Telegraph:—

The time is fast approaching when the International team selection committee will have to nominate the British team for the Davis Cup match of the year—that against Germany, at Queen's Club in a month's time.

A series of trial matches has been scheduled at Wimbledon at the beginning of April, but while these may have their value as practice bouts, it is scarcely likely that the results recorded at them will affect relative values determined at important competitions both at home and abroad within the past year.

This presumption is strengthened by the programme of matches arranged for the trials. No one doubts that Austin's qualification is dependent on his ability to defeat either W. H. P. or Sharpe, or that the pairing of Kingsley with Olliff instead of with Austin (omitted from the doubles trials) is a hint that the committee regard Olliff as a better partner for Kingsley.

For Great Britain to qualify for the challenge round in July against France—a goal that is not unattainable—five countries with strong resources will have to be overcome. These in turn are Germany, Australia, Italy, Japan, and America.

Four Candidates.

Since all their teams will have players of varied talents, tactical methods, and temperaments, it follows that our cause will be helped and may be affected decisively by using men whose experience has been tested and whose character has been proved in the international arena.

I imagine that four men present themselves as candidates for the two singles places. These are Austin, Gregory, Lee, and Kingsley. Austin's selection is of course, a certainty. His recent victory over Borotra in Paris was but the natural corollary to a development of inherent skill, and the fact that he was the fresher of the two men at the finish, and was able, without leaving the court, to play five more sets of doubles, disposes of the fear that his stamina is weak.

Austin's physique is like that of two other champions, Rene Lacoste and Mlle. Lenglen, who were regarded as frail in their childhood, yet added strength to their constitution by the discipline of match play, revealing, like Delbert before them, that perfect footwork, and a fluent style will conserve energy over a long match.

Gregory has the personal qualities for big matches, and proved it last year, but his professional claims as a doctor may limit his activities in the court. If he is not candidate for the second singles place Lee has already demonstrated that he is quite worthy to fill it. If they are available, as one may anticipate—at any rate for the most important matches—the Selection Committee are almost certain to pin their faith on Gregory and Collins for the doubles. Only a few points separated them from the championship at Wimbledon last year; they have yet to lose a Davis Cup doubles match; their reputation has been built up. The only possible alternative to my mind is Austin and Kingsley, a pair which revealed potentialities of real greatness at Monte Carlo in February.

Now that Austin is in a class by himself so far as British players are concerned his exclusion from the doubles teams of the future may have to be reconsidered, for he is a volleyer of conspicuous refinement, showing an improvement overhand in every match. If only to give the best practice to Gregory and Collins I think a match between these two pairs would be of great benefit to the Yorkshireman and the Scot.

WIMBLEDON PROFITS.

Major D. R. Larcombe, the manager of the All England Lawn Tennis Club, stated that the net profit accruing to the club from last year's championships at Wimbledon was £28,100, an increase of £3,700 on the previous year.

Major Larcombe said the receipts last year were £1,600 more than in 1928. It had been found possible to show a decrease of £2,200 on expenditure.

"This may seem a large sum," he said, "but one has to remember that rent and a hundred and one other things involving expenditure have to come out of it."

The All England Club has always used its money in the service of the public, and alterations and improvements have been made at the All England Club every year since 1927.

RIFLE MEETING.

More Entries for the H.K.V.D.C. Competitions.

FEWER FOR TEAM SHOTS.

The Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps' rifle meeting was held at Stonecutters' Range on Friday and concluded yesterday. On Friday there was a good deal of glare, but on Saturday the light was good. There was very little wind on either day. There were more entries for the individual competitions than last year, but fewer for the team shots. In the Corps Championship, Capt. Mitchell (Machine-Gun Company) won with the good score of 113 out of a possible 126. Private McLennan (No. 7 Platoon), last year's winner, coming second with 111. No. 6 Platoon did well in the team shots, winning both the Blake Shield and the Francis Cup.

The Blake Shield.

Seventeen teams competed for this event. The first four teams were as follows:—

1.—No. 6 Platoon, "A" team (Lt. Duncan 74, Pte. Major Mackie 73, Sgt. Cuthill 78, L/Sgt. Goodman 72), total 297.

2.—No. 7 Platoon, "A" team (Sgt. Parkinson 74, Pte. McLennan 83, Pte. Stainton 77, Pte. Younger 62), total 296.

3.—No. 12 Platoon (L/Sgt. Rosario 75, L/Cpl. Balerio 62, Pte. Silva 74, Sgt. Maher 59), total 276.

No. 2 Platoon "A" team—(2/Lt. Richards 73, Sgt. Shattley 76, Pte. Hall 71, Pte. Hirst 56), total 276.

Francis Cup.

Sixteen teams competed. First four teams as follows:—

1.—No. 6 Platoon "A" team (Lt. Duncan 44, Pte. Major Mackie 45, Sgt. Cuthill 45, L/Sgt. Goodman 45)—Snaphooting 65, total 244.

2.—No. 7 Platoon "A" team (Sgt. Parkinson 35, Pte. Stainton 50, Pte. McLennan 47, Pte. Younger 47)—Snaphooting 45, total 224.

3.—No. 12 Platoon (Sgt. Maher 34, L/Cpl. Balerio 43, L/Sgt. Rosario 42, Pte. Silva 38)—Snaphooting 65, total 222.

4.—No. 4 Platoon "A" team (Capt. Mitchell 42, 2/Lt. Stewart 45, Pte. Wood 45, Pte. Holmes 43)—Snaphooting 45, total 220.

Jar Competition.

WALTER LINDRUM.

The Man Who Has Changed Billiards.

30,817 IN TWO WEEKS.

Billiards, although an exception is made occasionally by the earl-earliest, are in appearance just ordinary human beings.

A more everyday, matter-of-course, one-in-the-crowd young man than Walter Lindrum could not be found. Yet he is a genius who has revolutionised billiards as a break-building spectacle.

Departed with John Roberts, whose stately entrances and exits would, if copied by our present-day exponents, be a cause for amusement rather than the awe which John created in his paying guests. Hence it is for his artistry alone that Lindrum shines.

Up to last season the usual number of points our leading professional players were scheduled to score in a fortnight's game was 16,000. Even then the sessions were not always limited to two hours. During the past fortnight, in sessions absolutely restricted to two hours, Lindrum scored 30,817. This is such stupendous scoring, and such an advance on anything he has done before, that one wonders how long and how far he will continue to improve.

With the exception of the two matches he lost to Willie Smith after winning the first three—such inexplicable results as to warrant the assumption that he was paying his host and sponsor in Britain a pretty compliment—his career since his arrival here has been one of persistent advance. Always he has been doing a bit better, always scoring more.

The Masse Stroke.

Having seen all the old-time champions—W. Cook, Joseph Bennett, John Roberts, Charles Dawson and such great players as W. J. Peall, E. Diggle, W. Mitchell, Hugh McNeill (a left-handed player as Lindrum is), J. North, C. Harverson, W. Spiller, and F. Bateman—one believes the artistry of all these men is combined in Lindrum.

If he has a weakness at all it is the masse stroke. At this Roberts and Bateman rarely failed. Lindrum over here has failed more often than not and even when successful makes the stroke appear difficult in comparison with the old masters mentioned. Many are inclined to ascribe this weak spot to his short stature, but this does not appear to trouble Falkner, who is the best present-day exponent of the stroke, and is no taller than Lindrum. This handicap makes Lindrum's break-building the more wonderful. He claims, however, that the masse is one of his best strokes, so we here may have been unlucky.

A Wizard.

The question is, When will he reach his zenith? He is not yet 30. John Roberts at 50 was a 40 per cent. better player than he was at Lindrum's age. Lindrum himself, modest and unassuming as he is, admits that he is playing better since his arrival in Britain than he ever did in Australia. There he has been for years "starving" for somebody good enough to play against.

"There is no reason," he said, "why I should not improve on my present form. I have my off days but am always trying to do my best, and my ambition now is to make a 4,000 break. I am fit and well and find your much maligned climate most agreeable. The British people and the players have been very delightful. This has given me great encouragement, and when I go home in April I shall be all the time looking forward to a return visit next autumn."

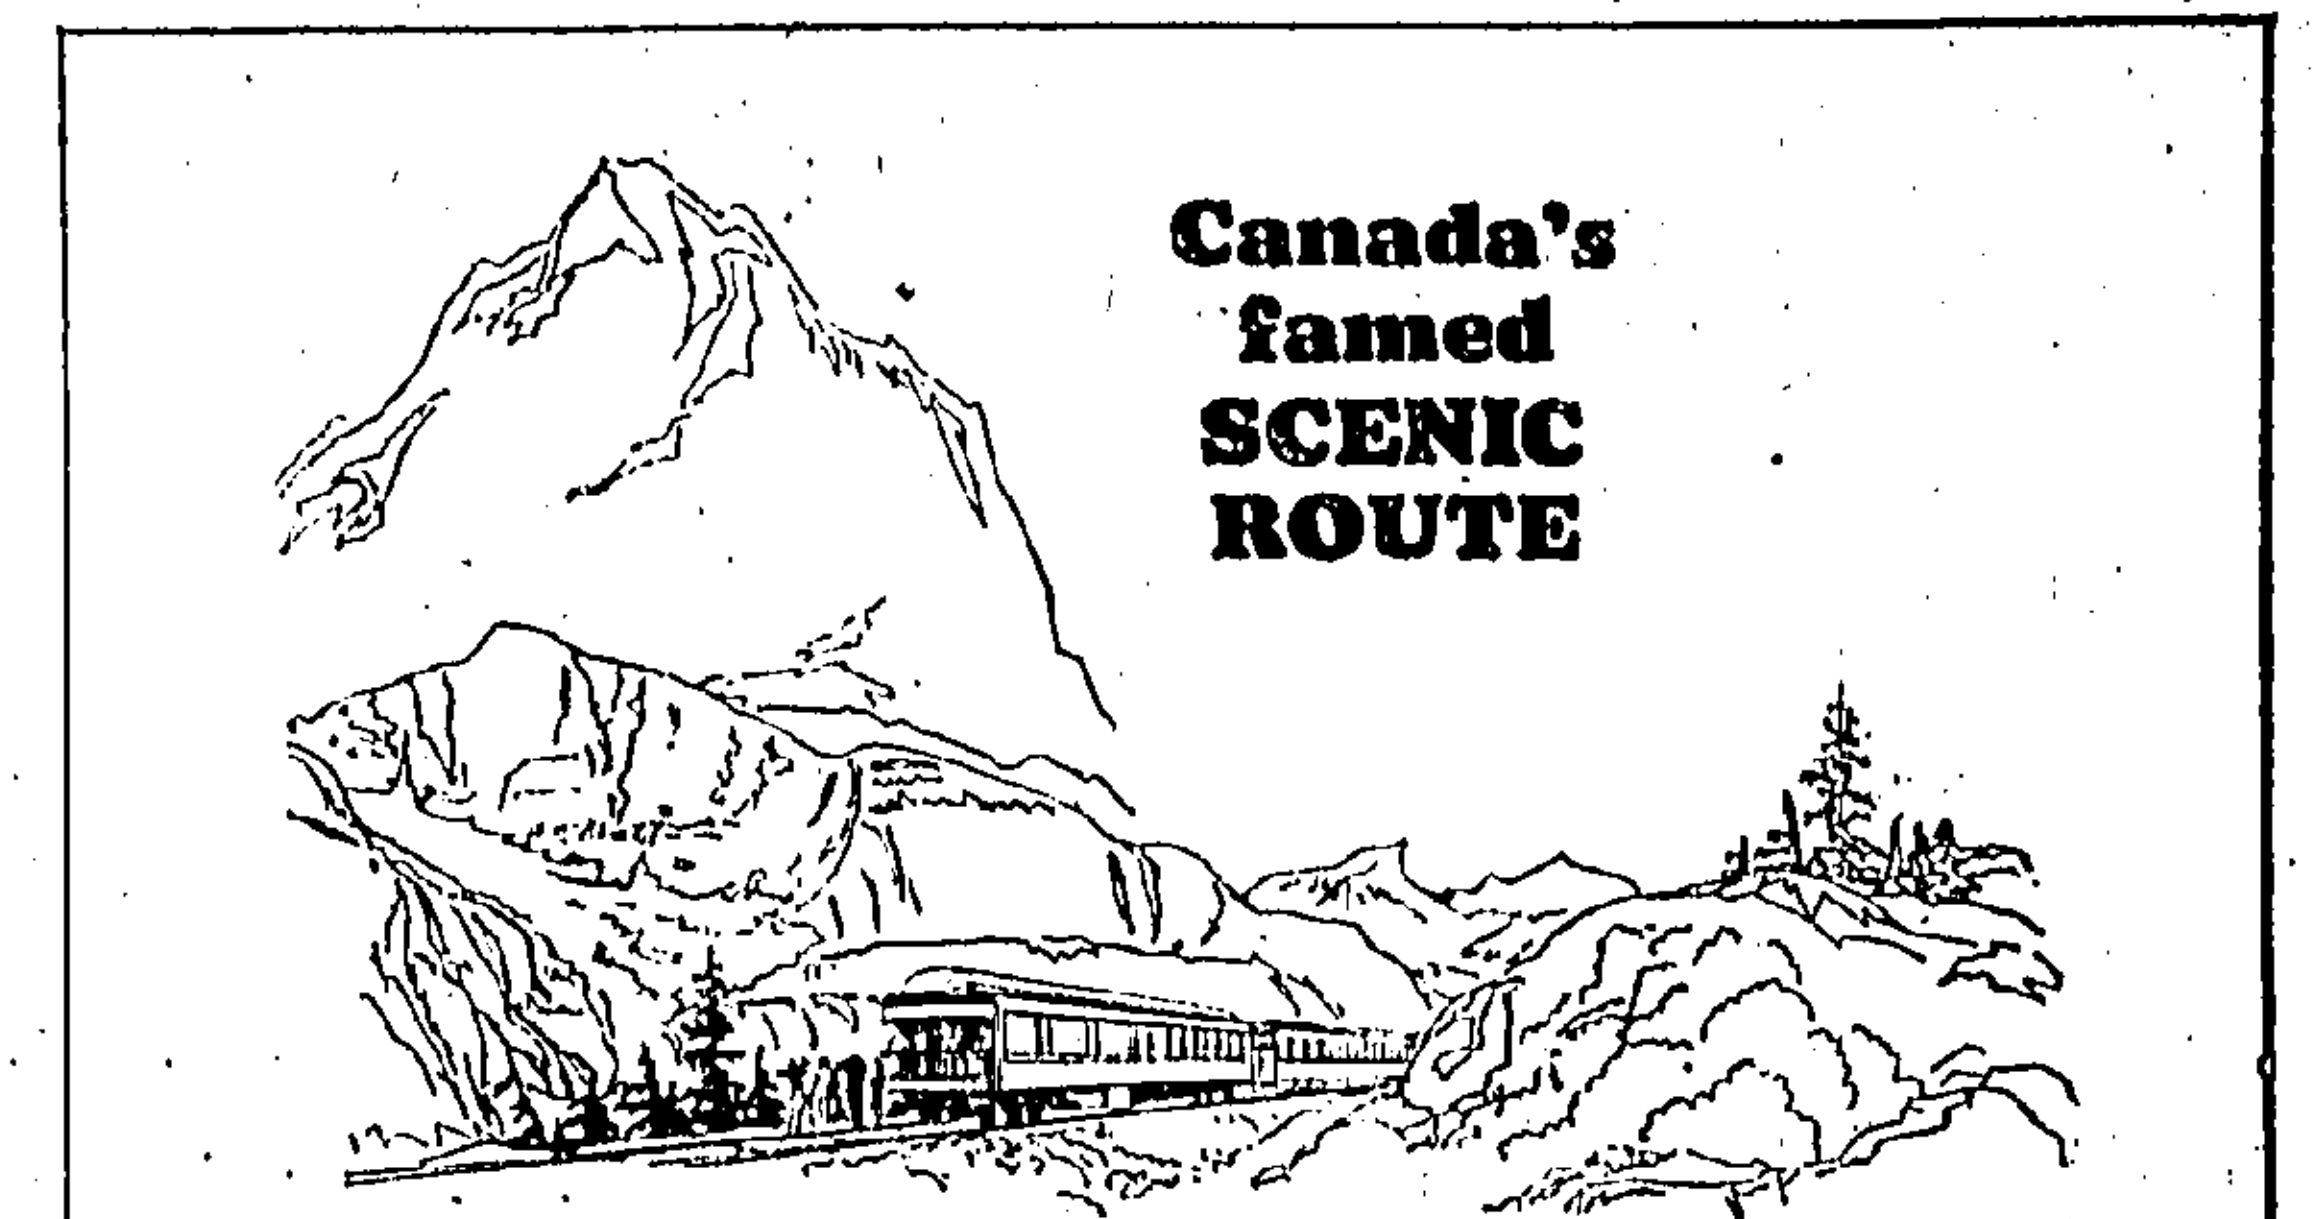

A typical Lindrum break includes a bit of everything. A few "in-offs" from hand, a drop cannon, a hundred or so by the orthodox top-of-the-table methods, then a string of cannons nursed down the left-side cushion as far as the middle pocket. A few more losing hazards, follow, then up to the top again, and so on. It is all very interesting but very deceptive, because it makes the most difficult game over invented appear the easiest. It would be a platitude to say that Lindrum is the best player in the world. His genius for the game is beyond superlatives.

Mr. T. F. Mitchell, formerly a county magistrate in Cornwall, has been found dead on a barge-yacht on the River Itchen, Southampton. He had been living alone on the vessel.

The murder rate in the United States is now twenty times that of Britain, and in many cities last year one out of every 10,000 inhabitants was murdered.

Conflicting statements have been published at Monaco purporting to give the terms of the separation of Princess Charlotte and Prince Pierre.

A message from Berlin states that on her first day's run the new liner Europa has beaten the record of her sister-ship Bremen.

DEATHS IN ALPS

Climbers Buried by Avalanche.

An Alpine tragedy in which two Germans lost their lives has just become known at Chamonix.

For a week there had been anxiety concerning the fate of four German students named Goebel, Defant, Rolf, and Falloubaux. They set out on skis to make a climb in the region of the Requin hut. Climbing conditions proved very bad, for the men encountered heavy snowstorms.

They were on the point of turning back when they were overwhelmed by an avalanche. Rolf and Falloubaux contrived to dig themselves out and promptly set to work to dig out their companions, who were buried deep in snow. The only things they had with which to dig were their skis. In spite of their efforts they were unable to recover the bodies of their friends for the snow filled up their excavations as quickly as they could dig.

When all hope had been lost they descended to the Requin hut and from there crawled back to Chamonix in a condition of extreme exhaustion with their bad news. A rescue party of guides then set out to recover, if possible, the bodies of the two missing students.

WHITEWAY CIRCUS.

Gives Benefit Performance to Aid Indian Club.

FINAL WEEK'S STAY.

Prof. Keelary, proprietor of the Whiteway Circus, which is now playing at the Wanchai Praya Reclamation, gave a benefit performance on Friday night in aid of the building fund of the Indian Recreation Club. There was a good house and the items on the programme were specially selected and directed by the proprietor, and it is expected that a good sum will be handed to the Treasurer of the I.R.C. after the accounts had been made up.

Whiteway Circus is playing in Hong Kong for one week more, and those who have not seen this splendid troupe of performers and the trained animals should make it a point of booking a seat at the earliest opportunity. The circus is playing to crowded houses every night and has a menagerie consisting of five elephants, eleven horses, one zebra, four tigers, two bears, two leopards and twelve monkeys. These animals are trained performers and their antics will amuse even a cynic.

Daredevil and acrobatic stunts are well looked after by a company of seven European and a large number of Indian performers, among whom are many ladies. Performances are given every night at 9.20 and the usual matinees are held on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

Elephants at Play.

INDIAN STUDENTS.

Warning Against Going Abroad.

Strong public opinion, fostered by the Press, the Universities and Government, will alone succeed in preventing immature and unqualified students from going abroad.

A plain and emphatic announcement by Government that a British degree or training is in no way a qualification for the various Government appointments would be bound to have an effect in the way of encouraging young students to stay in their own country.

Amongst other things, it should be remembered that the College terms cover at the most thirty weeks in the year, and for the remaining twenty-two, the young Indian student, as a rule alone and friendless, is thrown entirely on his own resources in a strange country. This is one of the most frequent and potent causes of disaster.

It is to be hoped that Government will take steps to give this courageous and timely warning on the part of the Education Department the widest possible publicity.

Well, by the time On Easter you are reading Egg.

At first sight, these eggs might appear awkward to eat, but it is one of the beauties of Nature that everything is compensated for; thus instead of using ordinary egg cups, the Patagonians eat their eggs by fixing them inside sticks of macaroni, which grow in wild profusion in the tropical forests. The upper classes, however, generally use cigarette holders.

You will notice it is slightly wavy in parts. This is owing to the fact that it was laid during a landslide. Even the most careful of hens can hardly be blamed if the earth comes up and hits an egg before its chassis has been properly bolted down, so to speak. Apart from this, the egg is standard in every respect, and is fitted with the usual yolk and other accessories.

In Patagonia, hand, we have this peculiarly shaped egg from the far land of Patagonia, a name derived from the practice of the local inhabitants in eating begonias and putting their tummies afterwards.

This egg is not, as might be thought, the result of inter-breeding a vegetable marrow with a yard of gas piping, but is entirely due to local conditions. In Patagonia, they have so many revolutions and riots that a hen never gets a chance to sit down and do the job properly, so it has to lay eggs while running about. Hence the extended formation.

Members of the Kowloon Bowling K.B.C.C. Green, will be interested in the following cutting from the Vancouver Province:—

Mrs. John Galt was elected president of the Vancouver Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club at the annual meeting in place of Mrs. W. W. Moore, who retired. Other officers named were: First vice-president, Mrs. M. S. Clark; second vice-president, Mrs. Alex. McLeod; convener of games committee, Mrs. C. C. Donovan; convener of refreshment committee, Mrs. G. Lewis; secretary, Mrs. E. J. Agnew; treasurer, Mrs. Alex. Roberts.

Mr. Galt was one of the pioneers of Kowloon B.C. and is still going strong at the game in Canada. Mrs. Wm. Farmer, who went to Canada last year to visit her son in Saskatchewan, is now staying with Mr. and Mrs. Galt and family in Vancouver for a few months.

The Singapore J.P. Press would really like to know what is the explanation of the fact that in the official announcement in the Straits Government Gazette last month with reference to the appointment of a successor to Mr. Boey Kok-leong (resigned) on the Committee of the Po Leung Kuk, the magic letters J.P. were omitted after the name, whereas the gentleman himself denies that he ever did resign and maintains that he is still on the roster of Justices. Now that the long story has ended in an acquittal what may the next development be expected to be?—The obvious inference is that the "error" of notices in the Straits Government Gazette inadvertently passed the intimation of the appointment of a successor in the particular Committee in the form supplied to him. As sins of omission and commission appear in the great London Times so it is known that Government Gazettes are not always models of accuracy.

A schoolboy botanist suggests that a red currant is "the stuff they use for tail lamps."

To "Boxing Fan"—We are not compelled to publish correspondence declined by our contemporaries.

A reference to quotation books and similar works recently showed that the three famous John B's of literature are apparently John Bull, John the Baptist and John (Barleycorn). Alphabetical order makes strange bed-fellows.

Says a non-local contemporary: "In 1927 he received 12 years for attempted murder, was released on probation in 1929 and soon was sentenced to nine months' hard labour for stock theft." No wonder the magistrate said that "gool did not seem to help the prisoner," seeing the ease with which he lives backward through his sentences.

With the appointment of Mr. Boxer as acting Registrar at our University the prospects of getting some of the Boxer indemnity should be brighter.

Recipe in a daily paper: "Mix all the ingredients, melt the butter before adding, being careful that no small bones are left in."—One thing we do object to is butter with bones in it.

He was proudly displaying his new car. "Can she go?" they asked. "Like wealth." "Change easily?" "Like a $5 note." "H'm, hope you'll never let her get as dirty as they do!"

One hears that the Government's decision that commercial vehicle proprietors should go pneu-ed, is more proper than it sounds.

One hears:—News sometimes, pneys seldom, but Solids always.

During a hot spell in Hong Kong, a French visitor approached an American in a Saloon Car and asked: "Can you tell me please, what was the nearest Turkish Bath in Hong Kong?" Simultaneously with dabbling his heated brow the Yank retorted: "Step right in hell, buddy."

A correspondent of a Home paper, referring to Admiral Campbell's "My Mystery Ships," gives evidence that the first mystery ship proper was a man-of-war disguised as a merchantman built "to cheat the Turks" in 1670. An Irish friend, who has apparently seen a recent film at the Majestic Theatre in Kowloon, says that the first mystery ship, in point of fact, was the Wooden Horse of Troy.

Fruit appears to be having a very hard time to mouth existence these days.

Four tuneful B's at the Radio Studio on Wednesday night—Baldwin, Best, Baldwin, Bishop—"O Peaceful Night."

A Shanghai paper writes of the Chinese Consul for India leaving his Alma Mater.—Does it really matter?

In the middle of a play which was being staged in a theatre at Home, the roof suddenly collapsed.—This is what comes of trying to bring the house down.

From a municipal report: "When the street lights were put out every night the house lights also went out. The residents were naturally put out about this."—All put out together.

Says a Home paper: "Why should we send tin to America to come back in the form of canned fruit when we have all the material for a great preserving industry here at our door?—It is doubtful if even 'Jix's' encouragement could transmute tin into pears and peaches."

According to an eminent K.C., there is no safer answer in any witness box in the world than—"I don't know."—So now we do know how to be on the safe side before the judges or the magistrates in this Colony.

Miss Mercedes Gleitze has started on an intensive effort to win the world's endurance record for a non-stop swim. The record is at present held by an American lady, who swam for 50 hours continuously.—If it was a question of swimming in a liquid stronger than water, MacThrift would have thought of trying to break the record too.

"Kissing Goes by Favour."

IF the community of this Colony as sporting as it might be in comparison with that in other British Colonies in the Far East? By virtue of an innuendo being capable of being read into that phrase, the query may seem quite contrary to the spirit of Eastertide—and, indeed, antagonistic to the spirit of Sport itself at all times.

In local Clubland, however, it is an open secret that the question has repeatedly been asked, but never has elicited a wholly satisfactory answer.

In the matter of Committees, a glance at those elected year after year may suffice to show how strongly is favouritism as against pure merit and the will to work in the interests of a particular sport. There is, it is alleged,—as in the Colony as a whole,— a tendency to cliques that cannot be good for sport generally, let alone for any particular Club or Association. In some cases the retiring Committee, no matter whether their past year's work be good, bad, or indifferent, are re-elected en bloc. To suggest other nominations or a ballot would be regarded as "bad form." And even when the ballot is resorted to, the result too often depends not on merit but on sentiment and favouritism. "Old Blank" has been so many years on the Committee and he simply must be put on again, heedless of whether in latter seasons his activities have recalled the sere and yellow leaf shorn of its erstwhile pristine green and freshness.
"Young Dash" is a rattling good fellow, second to none in the amount of his monthly bar chits, and it would be unthinkable—besides offending him!—were he not kept among the Great Elect. The net result is that, too often, Club Committees are not truly representative of the general body of members. To that the retort comes as the expected—and prompt at that—that if members of Clubs misuse the opportunity at annual meetings to elect none but the most efficient, they have themselves to blame.

Then there is the matter of selections of teams for representative inter-Club or interport matches. How far sentiment influences the selectors is an open question. Grousters, like the poor, are ever with us,—sportsmen in name only. But eliminate the grousters and the chronic grumblers, and you will still find a certain measure of discontent when the names of selected teams are disclosed. There is hardly enough Club loyalty and team spirit to sink individual feeling either at being omitted for a certain match or of being placed in other than one's own favourite place in the team. In the selection of interport matches it is not always recognised that the selectors are supposed to be nominated because of their ability to act with impartiality, but yet the bona fides both of selectors and their critics are often questioned and allegations of favouritism are too frequent. If, on occasion, there be an exception, it is submitted to be the proverbial exception that proves the proverbial rule.

It may be that these shortcomings on the part of local sportsmen are but the result of living in a type of community that unconsciously tends itself to cliques in the general sense. It is quite easy, of course, to exaggerate the position and to dismiss the possibility of cranks who hewil unaportmanlike tactics in the community as belonging to a class who would find fault with Paradise itself. Even so, the softening spirit of Eastertide may be invoked to create a better standard of sport in the Colony and to make a general plea to "play the game for the game's sake," for the sake of one's Club, and for the sake of the Colony. If that gentle hint be taken, this Easter sermonette on the subject of sport shall not have been penned in vain.

LIM.—At 5.10 p.m. yesterday, at

DRAFT BILL PUBLISHED.

The current issue of the Government Gazette states:—

"The Trustees of the Sailors' Home and the Missions to Seamen in Hong Kong intend at an early date to apply to the Legislative Council of the Colony of Hong Kong for the introduction of a Bill intituled, 'An Ordinance to provide for the Incorporation of the Sailors' Home and Missions to Seamen.'"

Among the numerous clauses set out in the proposed Ordinance are the following:—

1.—This Ordinance may be cited as the Sailors' Home and Missions to Seamen Incorporation Ordinance, 1930.

2.—(1) The Committee for the time being an hereinafter composed of the Sailors' Home and Missions to Seamen shall be a body corporate (hereinafter called "the Corporation") and shall have the corporate name, "The Sailors' Home and Missions to Seamen," and in that name shall have perpetual succession and shall and may sue and be sued in all courts in the Colony and shall may have and use a common seal.

(2) The committee shall be composed of the following:—

(a) The Bishop of the Church of England known as the Bishop of Victoria, for the time being officiating in the Colony.

(b) The person for the time being performing the duties of Harbour Master of Hong Kong.

HONG KONG FAIRY STORIES.

We shall be glad to get back to work on Tuesday.

Those showers of rain on Friday and yesterday were welcomed by all sportsmen.

All trade returns submitted to the Statistical Department are true in every respect.

The Taifoo ladies have issued an open lawn bowls challenge to the ladies of all other Clubs.

The case of perjury in the Magistracy the other day is the only one known in the long annals of the Courts here.

Not to be outdone by Taifoo ladies the Hong Kong Football Club, Rugby section, is forming a ladies' "Rugger" team.

It is to be gazetted that in future years no holidays shall be held during Easter and that all forms of sport on Good Friday shall be banned.

The draft of a Bill is being prepared to levy a tax of 2 1/4 per cent. on all cash sweep tickets sold, with five per cent. on the proceeds of prizes.

RUSSIANS IN HONG KONG.

Sir.—The correspondent in last week's issue, who signs himself
"Anti-Russ," is merely babbling.
"Clear the Russians out of the Colony," he says—but evidently forgot that neither the Government nor the Police of Hong Kong has the power to expel, however gently, the Russian emigres, unless their behaviour is such as to warrant action of this sort. As a matter of fact the majority of them are very decent hard-working people, and that their presence here, or their ability to live on low wages is a disadvantage to our local British unemployed, is indeed a misfortune for which they are not responsible. The responsibility it seems to me, lies with the business houses and contractors in Hong Kong who prefer, evidently, to employ cheap alien labour to British. If the Russians are to be cleared out, they may only be so shifted by the determination of local firms to displace their Russian employees at the expiration of their contracts and take on British employees, of which I understand, there is quite a number idle.

It would be fairer, surely, if there is to be any move to expel the Russian emigres in Hong Kong, to offer them an alternative place of residence. There is plenty of room for men of the right type in parts of Canada, and I would suggest that the local Russians be given the opportunity of finding employment there, with the assistance of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Hong Kong, whose views on the subject should be of interest.

Another important question, and one which has been neglected in this correspondence, is the

MARCH WEATHER.

Seventeen Wet Days Recorded.

According to the meteorological observations made at the Royal Observatory, there were seventeen wet days in March. The rainfall recorded was 7.15 inches at the Botanical Gardens on eleven days.
At the Matilda Hospital, Mount Kellett, 7.53 inches were recorded also on eleven days. At Fanling 6.09 inches of rain fell on twelve days; and at the Royal Hospital, 5.27 inches of rain fell during eight days.

The Tai Po Police Station registered a total fall of 10.11 inches on twelve days.

The total rainfall in the Island was 20.95 inches and over in the peninsula the total was 16.20 inches.

The Temperature recorded was 77.0 degrees on March 3 and 29, while the coldest day experienced during the same month was 47.2 degrees on March 7.

ORGANIST DEPARTS.

Mr. Rupert Baldwin
Leaves for Home.

Mr. Rupert Baldwin, A.T.C.L.,
Mrs. Baldwin and their baby son, David, proceeded to England yesterday on the German ship Sauerland on leave. Mr. Baldwin, organist of St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, for five years, expects to be back by Christmas.

The Church Council has appointed Mr. Reginald H. A.
Wooley to be honorary organist during his absence from the Colony.

EASTER.

Easter, thou child of Autumn and
the old

Long-wandering sun, O, bring thy flowers

And strew them manifold
On April hours

For Easter, Easter always comes With gold and white chrysanthemums.

Easter, thou child of Autumn, it was Spring

When Christ went up the Mount
of Fear—

So birds and shepherds sing
In April here:

And Easter, Easter always comes With white and gold chrysanthemums.

Easter, thou Light that breaketh through the gloom,
Stars shine for thee, and waters moan

In April: late flowers bloom
For thee alone.

For Easter, Easter always comes With gold and white chrysanthemums.

Easter, thou child of Autumn and
the old

Long-wandering sun, O, bring thy flowers

And strew them manifold
On April hours

For Easter, Easter always comes With gold and white chrysanthemums.

Easter, thou child of Autumn, it was Spring

When Christ went up the Mount
of Fear—

So birds and shepherds sing
In April here:

And Easter, Easter always comes
With white and gold chrysanthemums.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

political aspect of the matter.
We have no actual guarantee as to the political colours of the local Russian population, and it is perfectly conceivable that although they all of them call themselves "white," there is a certain element of "Redness" amongst their number. They have no country at present, just as the French emigres had no country during the French Revolution, but they are bound to return to Russia sooner or later, even though the impossible idea of a "return to Tardom" may not be realised. We cannot allow them to make British possessions their country unless they wish to take out naturalisation papers, and the fact that they are unwilling to do this suggests that, although they have no country now, they hope to have one in the future, because, after all, they are Russians. Many must secretly be in sympathy with Stalin's regime, and that sympathy will make it all the easier for them to return to Russia, a land in which "white" aristocrats have accepted the principles of Bolshevism and are working side by side with "sons of the people."

If ever there should be a war between Russia and Great Britain (and it does not seem at all unlikely), I am certain that a large proportion of the local Russian colony would leave Hong Kong. It is thoughts like these which make one wonder why the authorities allow aliens to be employed on local water schemes, reservoirs, etc. and places where it is essential that secrecy should be observed. We do not want to make a Hellgeland of Hong Kong but let us at least exercise more care than we did in the years before 1914 at Chatham, Dover, Portsmouth and the Admiralty.

Yours, etc.,

"Fair Play."

Hong Kong, April 16.

"Fair Play" is inconsistent and illogical. He wrongly asserts that neither the Government nor the Police (the same thing) has the power to expel Russians and later suggests an alternative place of residence "if there is to be any move to expel the Russian emigres." He suggests dumping them on to Canada and yet insults that "there is a certain element of 'Redness' amongst their number," and that "many must secretly be in sympathy with Stalin's regime." Is that not the most potent reason for ensuring that such are not employed either by British or alien firms or on Government contracts of this Colony?—Ed. Sunday Herald.]

CANTON AND THE LION.

Sir,—In your last week's interesting report of the regatta held at the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club, it was stated that the Cantonians used the "Lion" as their war cry in the exchange of cheers with Hong Kong.

I am prompted to inquire how they came to adopt the "Lion,"
as to my mind it is inappropriate, since Canton is known as the "City of Rams." The "Lion" would have been more logical, although I am prepared to grant that it is hardly a defant note.

Yours, etc.,

Hau Kum.

Hong Kong, April 16.

TAIPO TOPICS

[From the United Press Staff Correspondent at the Front.]

The Burgo-master stated that tenders had been invited for the lease of the Mosquitoery formed by the 40 uncultivated padd fields at Tai Po but that people were shy of bidding because of the clauses in the proposal which prohibited the use of snap type rat traps which tended to break the mosquitoes' legs and the use of 1 inch mesh wire in the decoy through which it was believed a large number might escape.

During the early parts of the Big War whenever lengthy trenches were cut they usually received a street name attaching to them. The Regiment who dug a trench cut by a Liverpool Regiment was named Dale Street, another by a Glasgow Regiment, Sauchiehall Street, another by an Edinburgh Regiment, Princea Street. In the next war the Regiments from Tai Po will be instructed to christen the first trench which they dug Anopheles Street.

One very sound reason why Tai Po should declare its independence of Hong Kong and join up with Singapore was that a Tai Po dollar would then be worth the same as Straits dollar, whilst the Hong Kong dollar could then be more readily converted into the level of the rupee.

LARGEST MOTOR SHIP.—The N.Y.K. Tatsuta Maru, one of the largest motor ships to enter Hong Kong Harbour, arrived in the Colony on April 11. This liner is 584 feet long, with a beam of 72 feet and a depth of 42.5 feet, and is equipped with Diesel engines which give her a speed of 21 knots.

INTERESTED SPECTATORS.—A photo of a section of the crowd which watched the Honda-Fincher duel. Sitting on the left of the front row is the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southorn, C.M.G., Mr. T. E. Pierce and Mr. J. Barrow (Private Secretary). — (K. Fujiyama).

A TENSE MOMENT.—Spectators at the Hong Kong Tennis Championship meeting, watching a tense moment when Honda leads 6-3 in the final set. — (K. Fujiyama).

MILITARY CUP.—Mrs. R. M. Dyer presenting Mr. D. Cave with Grand Military Cup won by San Francisco. — (K. Fujiyama).

FLIGHT TO ENGLAND.—The arrival of the young Indian airman and his companion at Croydon Aerodrome on March 21. Mr. H. H. Chawla left Karachi (India) to fly to England in an attempt to win a prize of $500 offered by the Aga Khan. He was compelled to descend near Thetford Aerodrome, Norfolk owing to dense fog, but continued his flight to Croydon the next day. — (Sport and General).

MONTANA'S SUCCESS.—Mr. W. Stanton's Montana, winner of the Steeplechase Champions, being led in by Mrs. A. L. Shields. — (K. Fujiyama).

CLEARING THE GOAL.—Nearly 70,000 at Old Trafford, Manchester, saw Huddersfield Town win their way through to Wembley by defeating Sheffield Wednesday by two goals to one. Huddersfield will thus make their fourth appearance in the Cup Final, which takes place at Wembley on April 26. They will meet the winners of the re-play match between Arsenal and Hull City. The Wednesday Backs close in to defend Brown, their goalkeeper while he clears his goal. — (Sport and General).

CHERRY-BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN.—At this season, the Japanese and visitors from all over the world gather to witness one of the most gorgeous floral exhibits to be seen anywhere, in the vistas of lovely cherry trees in blossom. NEW GOWNS.

In "This Way to Paradise."

All the new London shows exploit the new fashions. The biggest successes sartorially of all the recent first nights was the dramatisation of Alfred Huxley's novel "Point Counterpoint" under the name of "This Way to Paradise" at Daly's Theatre.
Miss Violet Vanbrugh as the matron Lady Tantamount had a gorgeous evening gown of apricot panne velvet made closely fitting to the hips and then flowing out as all the best evening dresses do, into a train.
The décolletage was bordered with transparent diamante, which went over the shoulder into a V at the back to the waist, and then continued right to the end of the train.
With this she had a short evening coat in the same material with a large fox collar. These matching coats are universal with robes de style, and give the effect of a very sumptuous evening two-piece.

A very daring young girl's gown was worn by Miss Prudence Vanbrugh as Lucy Tantamount. It was an evening gown in ivory-tinted satin with a shell-like bodice slightly gauged at the waist and ending in a deep pointed yoke, from which hung panels of the satin touching the ground all the way round, and when she moved the illusion of tightness vanished, for her legs were seen to the knees!
So that is one way of getting away from long dresses and showing pretty legs. The bodice was made with a square front and a deep V at the back, where it was held in position with a clasp of diamonds and green paste. The same colours were repeated in her ring and cigarette case for all jewel necessaries match.

On the day clothes worn in this play there was a good deal of soft lingerie effects. A black crepe de chine afternoon gown had a cravat and under-sleeves of finely tucked white chiffon and Valenciennes lace,

Handmade Flowers.

This evening frock reveals the girlish lines featured this season. Over a satin slip the all-over lace is fashioned with a clinging bodice. The new hip line made flowers and the blue velvet girdle which is a revival of an old fashion of the 'nineties. With this there was a short coat of black ponyskin.

An afternoon gown in rust colour crepe magnolia had a chemise of deep cerise lace, and its coat was of ring velvet to tone. A number of short military collars were used on tailored clothes, and the coats were fitted and made with many darts, and in some cases modified basques.

BEST DRESSED STAR.

Advices Attention to Details.

Pay attention to the slight details of fashion is the counsel of Kay Francis, America's best dressed woman.

Miss Francis, who appears in the all-star frolic, "Paramount On Parade," has won laurels as a well-dressed actress both in Hollywood and New York.

"Every well-groomed woman," states Miss Francis, "gives painstaking attention to each item of her wardrobe. Coat hangers, sashet bags and shoe-trees as well as her most luxurious costumes receive their quota of forethought."

For a likely example, Miss Francis points to the feminine handbag.
Usually, it is a smart affair, in leather or suede, matching or harmonising with the costume, but many women overlook the inside of the handbag.

The woman whose purse reveals an interior that is soiled with powder, strewn with lip rouge and is a confusion of heedlessness, is certain to fall short of the ultimate chic.

"The well-groomed woman keeps her equipment in beautiful orderliness," says Kay Francis. "The inside of her handbag is spotless. Her powderpuff is protected by a thin covering of rubber or silk. If lip salve is used, a tiny square of gauze utilised to wipe the surplus rouge from the fingers, is tucked into a corner, or into the pocket where the mirror is lodged. A small nail file or emery board, as well as a miniature tube of cleansing cream is an intrinsic part of the handbag accessories of the smartly active woman. A bill clip that will keep paper money flatly and compactly placed in a coin purse, will add to the flat appearance of the entire bag."

A receptacle for perfume is often carried in the purse, but Miss Francis prefers to scent the lining of her bags with a favourite essence, so that the aroma clings to "des objets feminins," and is always faintly evident each time the purse is opened.

APRIL BRIDE.

Bring me a bolt of your April pattern
And I'll sew my life to your heart's content, (Organdy frills on a silken slat-tern!)

It can be done—now my heart's for rent.
Winter is over and put away
(The hope for meat and the prayer for wine)
Feed me the foam of your laughter gay
To sweeten the taste of the salt in mine.

Now that I know the chord in your voice
Was only the wind choking outside
I find the treble tone of your choice
Really is suitable for a bride—
(Now that my love for you is dead And I am a doll fit to be wed.)
—Merriam Griffin.

Simple Morning Frock.

One of the newest grey and white flecked tweed is used for this morning frock, relieved with touches of satin and horizontal tucks. Note the length of the skirt—nearly to the ankles—

AMAZING ANTICS.

Offenders of the Charleston.

The present-day style of dancing is not always graceful. We see couples in the ball-room performing the most amazing antics. Perhaps the worst offenders were the ex-ponents of the art of "Charleston," as it was first introduced. They were often a public danger to other dancers. After a really strenuous bout of "Charlestoning," couples appeared absolutely exhausted, and the girl most unconsciously hot and dishevelled. Fortunately, this dance soon died a natural death, to be replaced by the more sedate "Blues." Smoothness, rest and quietness are the characteristics of this dance, which is an ideal combination for a tropical climate. It is not easy, and very seldom is it done really correctly, but it can be very graceful if properly danced.

So much depends on the graceful carriage of the woman. Perfect balance is absolutely necessary to graceful dancing. This depends mostly on the man. If he holds his partner in a cramped position, she

This ruffled chiffon dress is of Alice blue chiffon, showing a plain foundation with a cape collar and tiers or circular fouches on it. The skirt assumes lines which are apt to be very popular this season.

SHORT SKIRT FIGHT.

"Sensible Dress Society" Launched.

The Sensible Dress Society, which has just been formed here, writes the Daily Mail Correspondent in Liverpool, intends to combat the inroduction of long skirts.

A woman barrister, two solicitors, and two doctors are on the temporary committee appointed at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Bessie Harris, the founder of the society, at Hunt's Cross, near here.

Mr. R. Walter Harris, the honorary treasurer, told me:

Short skirts originated in Great Britain and have been adopted all over the world, and we protest against the domination of Paris in the matter of women's dress.
Short skirts are artistic, graceful, and hygienic.

Long skirts, which have already been introduced for evening wear, will inevitably extend to day wear if unopposed.

Manufacturers will not benefit so much as they expect from the revival of the long dress, because women of moderate incomes will be unable to buy as many dresses as they do now.

The aim of this society is to resist not only the long skirt but any other inconvenient fashion.

Miss D. W. Harris, Mr. Harris's daughter, who is a member of the committee, said her mother had received letters from women all over the country offering to support the new movement.

SPRING FASHIONS.

Dress materials printed in flower and modernistic motifs will lead the Spring fashion parade.

This information was contained in a letter received at the Paramount studios from Mr. Travis Banton, fashion creator, who is now travelling through Europe.

Mr. Banton reports that corn-flower blues and dusty pinks create many of the printed chiffon materials favoured by the Parisians, while the crepes use backgrounds of navy blue and black, with bold flower designs in yellow, red, green and orange.

Velveteen jackets in the predominating colour of the print used in the frock beneath, are seen at the Riviera resorts, Mr. Banton states, and the combination of bright blue and white in both prints and plain materials is the most popular colour scheme for sport wear.

Dinner gowns will be fashioned in prints of pastel shades, with lace trimming. Black lace as well as dyed pink and orchid lace is used as trimming for these chiffon prints.

Afternoon prints in black and white, created in crepes as well as chiffons, accompanied by large black or red straw hats will fill an important role in summer modes.

Mr. Banton also remarks on the importance of all white outfits for summer wear, in silk as well as cotton materials. The cap sleeve has taken the place of last year's sleeveless fashions, and but few of the pre-season sport frocks are back-less.

cannot possibly look graceful. No woman can appear to advantage if she is held in an ungainly manner, or the beautiful line of her arm spoiled by being held too high or crushed against her side.

To dance really well you should be in entire sympathy with your partner. Your movements should be in perfect unison awayed only by the rhythm of the music. What could be more graceful than a perfectly-matched couple moving as one, gliding smoothly over the floor in absolute harmony with the melody?

WOE IS ME!

Women at Home Bewail Fashions.

(By A Londoner).

New fashions are here. The big spectacular dress shows have not yet begun, but the new clothes are being shown to favoured customers and to those going abroad and choosing trousseaus. Everybody is interested, but few are entirely pleased. And the length of the skirts and the need for some kind of corset is not the only grievance that is being voiced.

The return of the fastening and the button are causing a great wailing among the young, who have never had to fasten their frocks in their brief lifetime, and who now see themselves faced with all the troubles which afflicted their mothers, and of which they had only heard as a tradition of clothes which they had never seen. It will take more time to dress in future, as apart from the business of actual buttoning and hooking there will be a good deal of adjustment to pull a tight dress into place over the hips in the afternoon and evening, and to get blouses tucked neatly into place in the daytime.

Here are some of the notes made at a small private collection shown one morning recently. Many capes on day and evening gowns. On evening gowns they were in filmy material floating in chiffon at the back, and on day dresses they were short and not unlike dolmans. A day dress in wool georgette had a button-up front to the bodice, and a little basque and a long tight skirt flowing out where the tucks were released a few inches below the knee; the cape had two frills of its own material kilted, and was rounded like an old lady's cape of the nineties, and was tied on. Some of the afternoon frocks for warm days have elbow sleeves. A white muslin made with embroidered spots had little elbow sleeves and an odd-looking old world taffetas coat with ruchings of the silk, which was of shot grey and pink taffetas.

Harbinger of Spring.

The fastidious miss sports the latest creation in Spring fashions. The attractive coat effect model, portrayed above with plaited cape and skirt gives that charming youthful aspect in addition to perfect style.

"HOME LEAVE"

The Man From Hong Kong.

"By the way," said Horace to me one morning, as we strolled down Pleasance, "I'm off next month."

"Off where," I asked, not being particularly interested in anything at the moment.

"Going away, idiot," said Horace.

"Oh," I said. I wasn't particularly surprised. Horace is always going and coming. "Where is it this time—Tibet, or somewhere?" I don't know where Tibet is, but I'd read the name somewhere or other.

"Just on the border," said Horace, looking at me with some interest. "China, as a matter of fact."

"Oh," I said again, trying to look interested. "Let me see, China, that's . . ."

"Just north of Hong Kong," said Horace helpfully.

"Quite," I agreed, still in a fog, "and Hong Kong . . ."

"Just south of China," interposed my much-travelled friend.

"Good," said I. "Send me a postcard, will you? And now let's drop into Dingle's."

"Where on earth is Dingle's?" asked Horace.

"Just south of Bulmer's," I replied, serenely. After all, Horace doesn't know everything.

Another Encounter.

But, of course, just as we turned the corner, Horace must run into somebody. It was a wretched-looking individual selling fountain pens this time. I should have thought Horace would have known better. The fountain pen trick is about played out nowadays. But I have yet to solve all my friend's vagaries.

"Morning, Mr. Horace," said the wretched individual. "You're looking very well, sir."

"What ho! Spike!" said Horace cheerfully. "What is it this time—2.30 winner or the latest from Paris?" He fumbled in his pocket, whilst the wretched person put on what I call the thirsty look.

"Fountain pens," he said sadly. "Self-filling, gold nib . . ."

"Here's half-a-crown," said Horace, "and I'll take the pen."

"Do," said the W.P. "I've had it a week, and the fearful thing haunts me. Good luck, Guv'nor."

We resumed our walk in silence. I felt rather annoyed. No man in his sober senses buys fountain pens in the street. I told Horace so, adding a few caustic remarks about undesirable acquaintances.

"Bunkum," replied Horace firmly. "Old Spike was a fine wellerweight in his day—and didn't we once sell things ourselves?"

Oversens Stuff.

He had me there. I shall never forget our brief career as salesmen. But there was worse to come. Just as we were turning into Dingle's, the one spot where it might be expected that Horace wouldn't meet anybody he knew, we came into a stout, red-faced, elderly gentleman, who, after a blasphemous exclamation of surprise, proceeded to pump-handle him in the approved manner.

"Fancy meeting you," he spluttered.

"And fancy meeting you," beamed Horace.

"Say it with flowers," I interposed, thoroughly fed up.

"How's Hong Kong looking," said Horace, completely oblivious of my presence.

"Still on the rocks," said the red-faced man, jovially. They both laughed heartily at this.

"And the merry old Peak," went on Horace.

"Still up in the air," said the other. This was the signal for unrestrained mirth.

"Going in or out," said Horace, indicating the doorway.

"In—now," said the old bird, decisively.

We all went in. I was eventually introduced, and by noon, when the old gentleman began to talk something approaching sense, we were getting on very well together. By this time we had drifted away from Dingle's, and had arrived at some office in which the visitor was interested. It appeared that he was only in town for the day, and was anxious to get back to the country.

Chinese Chow.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," he said, as he signed the last paper, and thumped down the top of his desk. "We'll all go round to a little place I know, and get some real Chinese chow. You know what I mean?" he went on, turning to Horace, "shark's fin, chicken, frogs, prawns, and—here he reeled off a string of fearful language, which Horace explained, however, was merely a description of succulent Chinese dishes.

Horace was all agreement. "Wait till you taste shark's fin," he told me enthusiastically, "you'll get a new sensation."

"And what about the bird's nest soup," said the other gleefully.

"That will give you something to think about."

"I've no doubt it will," I said politely, but yet not wholly convinced. The Man from Hong Kong led the way out. "I've got a car of sorts out here," he said. "Not much of a boat, but I bought it cheap, and it serves its purpose."

"In where," asked Horace, looking round blankly.

"Now where the . . .," said the Man from Hong Kong. His face brightened suddenly. "Oh! of course, I left it behind that Rolls-Royce." He led the way to a dimly lit little machine parked near the curb. "What do you think about that?" he exclaimed proudly, pointing to his possession, "small, but neat. Some people make nasty remarks about it, but it suits me."

"Just about fits you, too," said Horace, looking from the stout man to the machine. This was the signal for roars of laughter, which continued at intervals until we reached the Little Place the Hong Kong Man knew about.

The "Little Place".

"Here we are," said our new friend, as he led the way in. "We go downstairs." He waved his hand cheerily to someone I took to be the proprietor, and we descended.

To my surprise, the place was fairly full. Quite a respectable crowd, too. I caught sight of one or two people I knew, and began to feel more at ease.

"We won't have anything too elaborate," the Old Gentleman informed me. "Something simple is better. Personally," here he turned to address Horace, "I always prefer the inexpensive dishes. Ceremonial food is a bit too rich for me."

"Sure," replied Horace, apparently in complete accord. "I quite agree. Something on the everyday order is indicated. I think. Now let's see." They perused the menu together, sundry "Mms" and "Ah's" indicating their choice.

"Tell me that," said Horace, indicating me.

"Think so?" said the other.

"What about . . .?"

"Yes, he'll like that, too," repeated my friend.

"Chopsticks?" said the Hong Kong man, looking in my direction. Horace shook his head. "Knife and fork," he said. "Better let him keep that school girl complexion. Besides he might get them in his eye."

I began to feel as if I were going to enjoy myself.

A Cheery Meal.

To be quite honest, I did, when at last we got started. It was a trifling unbecoming at first to see Horace and his friend performing with their chop sticks, but, having nerved myself not to take any of them, I managed to make a most satisfactory lunch. Not quite what one was accustomed to, of course, but pleasing as a novelty. When we pushed our chairs back and lit up cigars, I was beginning to think that the Orient might have its points.

"Glad you enjoyed yourself," said the Hong Kong man. "Makes a wonderful change to get away from the old beefsteak and what not now again. You ought to go to China some day. They know how to feed themselves there."

"You bet," said Horace, cheap as dirt, too. None of your fancy dishes with French names about this. Good, solid, palatable grub . . ."

"He went on in a lyrical strain.

"Leave this to me," said our friend, as the waiter approached with the bill. "No, no"—as Horace raised a protest, "only a trifle like this? My dear Horace!"

"I insist," said Horace, firmly.

The Hong Kong man shrugged his shoulders. "Oh, well, as you like," he said good-humouredly, "we'll split it."

"How much," said Horace carelessly to the waiter.

"Three pounds fifteen shillings," replied the waiter impassively.

There was a silence. Somewhere, as the novelist says, a clock ticked on, and gay laughter reached our ears—at least it reached mine—and one could hear the traffic rumbling outside . . .

"Well, I'll be . . .," said the Hong Kong man, recovering the power of speech. "Of all the . . . meals I've ever had," he went on, "staging a magnificent recovery. He fumbled in his pocket for his note case. "On me," he said in a voice which brooked no denial.

"Lighten," said Horace, who had recovered his composure. He rummaged in his pockets and produced the fountain pen, which he extended toward the waiter. "Take it," he said kindly, "I was a Boy Scout once."

USE OF INITIALS.Protest Against Increasing Fashion.

The Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph writes: One would have thought that in France, the country which has the greatest tradition for purity of literary expression, it would have been impossible for the habit of referring to things by initials ever to have gained the ground which it has.

The French Academy, official guardian of the language, should have taken some action. Now the thing has gone so far that, in the next edition of the Dictionary, definitions will have to be given of rows of initials as well as of words.

It was no doubt during the war that the habit took root. Even in the British army there were mysterious initials whose mystery it was difficult to solve, and none of us who were not professional soldiers ever quite learnt why a D.A.O.M.G. was a less important person than a D.A. and Q.M.G.—even now I am not sure whether I have got the initials right.

In Britain, however, initials went out of fashion after the Armistice. In France they have survived.

Of course, neither Britain nor France began it. The Romans were the first culprits, with S.P.Q.R. The Americans, with U.S.A., came a little later.

France, however, had set a bad example long before the war, with R.S.V.P., which Britain at once adopted, even more enthusiastically, and added to the previously adopted P.S.

To-day the uninitiated foreigner, who comes to France with a good knowledge of the French language, must be very confused by the initials which he meets. How is he to know that P.T.T. means the postal service, S.D.N. is the League of Nations, and T.S.F. stands for wireless? As for S.T.C.R.P., which represents the company in charge of the trams, and S.F.I.O., which is the Socialist party, he will perhaps not meet them so often or really need to understand them, but it might be useful to know that when a man, on the morning after, says he has a G.D.B., he is trying to tell you that his throat is rather parched.

It is more confusing still when the initials are run together to make up new words. When you hear the Andat spoken of, it is useless to try to discover any lingual origin for the word. It is merely composed of the five letters which begin the words of the full title of the National Association of Telephone Subscribers. There are other words being built up in the same way daily.

Really it was high time that there should be a protest. This protest has been made by certain literary men, who consider that the hundredth anniversary of the Romantic Movement is a very proper time to draw attention to the scandal. The Romantic poets may possibly have attached too great an importance to words for their own sake. The initial fencibles certainly attach too little.

PRISON FOR BANISHEE.

A Chinese who was arrested for stealing two bundles of firewood, was found to be a returned deportee, having been banished in 1927, for 10 years. At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, before Mr. Whyte-Smith, the man was sentenced to ten months' hard labour on the banishment charge, and one month for stealing, both terms to run consecutively.

APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments are announced in the current issue of the Government Gazette:—

Mr. Charles Gordon Stewart Mackie to be temporarily an Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council, in the place of Sir Henry Edward Pollock, K.C., who is temporarily absent from the Colony, with effect from April 9.

Company Quartermaster Sergeant Evan George Stewart to be Second Lieutenant, H.K.V.D.C.

Corporal David Louis Strellett to be Second Lieutenant, H.K.V.D.C.

Mr. Lancelot Ruggles Andrews to be Treasury Solicitor, in addition to his other duties, during the absence on leave of Mr. Thomas Maynard Hazlerigg, M.C., or until further notice, with effect from March 29.

Saying Graces.

"And what now," I asked, as we emerged into the sunlight.

The Man from Hong Kong looked at his watch. "We'll have a run round before tea," he said. He coughed thoughtfully. "About ten," he asked, "what do you suggest?"

"Lyons," said Horace promptly. "We've got a good band there."

"Great," said I, feeling more at home right away. "And that will be on me."

"You've got a good heart," said Horace.

"I was well brought up," I replied. I don't know what Horace said, because we drove off just then.

FRENCH PROTEST.Story of Co-operation with Chinese*EMPHATIC DENIAL.*No Reprisal by Indo-Chinese Troops.

The statement made in the Kuo Wen despatch from Canton that French troops from Indo-China had "incidentally" co-operated with the 8th division under Gen. Kiang Chui-hsi in driving the communists out of Lungchow has caused a mild furore in local French circles. The statement is considered to be propaganda in its worst form. The possibility of French troops joining hands with one Chinese army against another is emphatically refuted.

It was reported that the French authorities had despatched a military force 300 strong, composed mostly of Annamites, and five military aeroplanes, to besiege the city. These troops were said to have started an offensive on March 25, in conjunction with Gen. Liang's forces, which resulted in the killing of hundreds of communists and the subsequent execution of five Russian and a number of native agitators outside the East Gate of the city.

This action by the French was described as a reprisal for the destruction of the French consulate and the arrest and detention of M. Cadet, the consul, by communists on February 19. M. Cadet was then kept in confinement for two days before being escorted to Langson in company with four missionaries, two of whom were women.

The remark that the French troops co-operated "incidentally" rather than intentionally in this attack on Lungchow was interpreted as meaning that an independent French punitive expedition from Indo-China fell in with General Liang's troops and promptly took service under his flag.

French Activities Distorted.

Interviewed by a representative of the North China Daily News, M. E. Koechlin, Consul-General for France, said that the report was obviously ridiculous and far-fetched. "It is absurd to say that any unit of French troops would 'incidentally' or otherwise aid a Chinese army, however pressing the necessity," M. Koechlin said. "Such aid would be an act of war. The only instance in which French troops might cross the boundary of Indo-China is in connection with the affairs of the Yunnan Railway, which they guard from attack by special arrangement. This report is obviously propaganda, and I shall send it to the Governor of Indo-China as an example of how French activities are distorted and used for propaganda purposes."

It will be remembered that, on February 19, after the destruction of the French consulate and the arrest of the consul, the French mission at Lungchow was set afire and the houses of the four English missionaries thoroughly looted. Thirty orphans in the care of these missionaries were led away, and the missionaries themselves imprisoned in the yamen, together with the French consul.

Death Seriously Considered.

A "Workman's Council" seriously debated the possibility of executing the prisoners. Scaffolding was erected, ostensibly with the object of hanging them. Saner counsel, however, prevailed, and they were subsequently handed over to a military escort to take them over the frontier to Langson, in Indo-China.

The four captives were forced to walk the long distance between Chinese and French territory. Their sufferings during the march were terrible. Sleeping at night on dirty straw, very much alive, and subsisting on a few sticks of sugar cane, beyond a route, the lady members of the party particularly felt the exigencies of the only road to life.

At Langson the party was received by the Resident and treated with great kindness. They found the French authorities determined to close the frontier once for all and to prevent any kind of communication between Kuangsi and Tonkin. No hint of reprisal was then or has since been made by the French authorities. The report of their conjunction with the 8th division in an attack upon the city where these survivors experienced so much cruelty is obviously unfounded.

Sir David Murray, R.A., has suggested that the statue of Eros shall not be returned to Pleadilly, but transferred to Park.

R101 AND INDIA.Two Flights Scheduled This Year.

In presenting the Air Estimates (says the Allahabad Pioneer), the Under Secretary of State for Air gave further details of the programmes laid down for the two airships, R-100 and R-101. From this we learn definitely what are the prospects of India seeing either of them.

The R-100, it is confirmed, will not be able to come to India; the inflammability of her fuel prevents her cruising in hot climates. But a visit from R-101 is still "in the air," and will materialise as soon as the coming monsoon is over, if no hitch intervenes. At present, she is undergoing structural changes that will increase her lifting power.

The mooring mast and shed at Karachi which were opened the other day, are ready to receive her, and the meteorological service, specially adapted for airship requirements, is now in operation. It is gratifying to note that the British Government's intentions are not confined to one brief visit. The first voyage is expected to be in September or October. The next will be in December or early next year. On this second occasion, the airship will remain at Karachi for some time and carry out trials and experimental flights. This means that the rest of India will probably have an opportunity of viewing her.

For cruising range, when the improvements have been carried out, should enable her to fly non-stop from Karachi to Calcutta or Bangalore and back.

GOVERNMENT TENDER.

The following tender has been accepted by the Government—Messrs. W. S. Bailey and Co., Ltd., $32,230, for the supply of one wood steam launch for the Sanitary Department.

Film*Destroys Teeth and robs them of all lustre

WINNING smiles depend on glorious white teeth—and teeth like that depend on freedom from what dentists know as film. Film is a stubborn, clinging coating that ordinary ways fail to remove successfully. It is the chief source of serious tooth and gum disorders.

Film—how it destroys

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery coating. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth "off color."

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it in gentle safety to enamel.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today.

Pepsodent contains no pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive. It is so safe that dentists recommend it for cleaning the soft teeth of children.

"BROADWAY."

When the task of portraying on the screen a vivid phase of American life was entrusted to Universal, a young Hungarian, sundry authoritative persons in the motion picture world sat up and gasped.

The task involved was the translation of the stage hit, "Broadway," to both sound and silent versions in celluloid. "Broadway" is the talking, singing and dancing picture of night-club and gangster life—of ram runners and revues—replete with the picturesque jargon of chorus queens and underworld killers, now running at the Queen's Theatre.

Was it possible that a foreign, comparatively recently arrived from a different environment, could understand the speech, mannerisms and mental processes of these distinctly American products so as to transfer them accurately to the screen?

Yet Carl Laemmle, Jr., Universal associate producer, entrusted it to Dr. Paul Fejos, the young director whose meteoric genius has recently flashed with such brilliancy across the photoplay realm.

The full significance of the young producer's confidence in the Hungarian director can be the more fully understood when it is remembered that the mere rights to "Broadway" cost $275,000. Various production costs, including the construction of the largest and most elaborate set ever built in the history of motion pictures—the Paradise Night Club—ran the final cost to more than $1,500,000.

Doctor Fejos is a fully qualified doctor of medicine, who turned to the theatre and staged some of the most elaborate theatrical productions in Paris after acquiring his degree at the Royal Hungarian University, and who later came to America as a staff bacteriologist for the Rockefeller Institute, where he worked for three years. He went to Hollywood, unknown, and made a "picture" upon which he staked everything he had in the world. When that little picture, "The Last Moment," was released, he was acclaimed overnight as an outstanding director.

Before he tackled the making of such a film on such a subject as "Broadway," Fejos applied himself to the job of learning night life in the cabarets and the underworld just as he had applied himself to the job of bacteriology at the Rockefeller Institute.

He began a comprehensive research of his subject—haunted the bright lights more thoroughly than a "butter and egg man" along the milky way, and explored gangland in a manner which brought him into intimate contact with devotees of the gun and gas pipe.

In New York and Chicago he spent weeks in the famous cabarets of the country. He was piloted by newspapermen into dingy haunts. Wherever he went, he mingled easily and talked continually with those whom he found there—and then he went back to Hollywood to make "Broadway."

Gathering about him a staff of skilled technicians, he erected, on the largest sound-proof stage anywhere in the world, a night-club set which surpasses the composite of all the most luxurious and novel cabarets which he had seen during his journey—a set, which beside being acclaimed by experts as a perfect example of modernistic art, is photographically perhaps the most effective ever reproduced on a screen.

Then, having produced such a set, he cast about for adequate mechanical means of photographing its unique angles. Together with Carl Laemmle, Jr., he devised Universal's new celebrated camera crane, which is nothing more nor less than a device which makes a camera do everything except loop the loop—at a weight of 28 tons and a cost of $75,000.

Costumes for the revue girls were designed with prodigality, and an entire chorus of 30 girls rehearsed for weeks by a professional ballet master before they were photographed.

All this was done to capture the atmosphere in which is laid the dramatic action of the film version of "Broadway."

"Butch" is Lon Chaney's new-cut pal. He is a large gray cat, who wandered into the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star's dressing room and made friends. Every day Chaney has scraps from the studio commissary placed in his room for his new pal, and "Butch" watches over the place like a watchdog. He even chased Lew Cody's bulldog "Rookie" away from the place the other day.

Robert Montgomery is borrowing airplanes again and Ye Ed thinks his folks ought to know about it.

"THE CROWD."

Directed by the Man Who Made "The Big Parade."

OUTSTANDING FILM.

King Vidor has scored again! The man who made "The Big Parade" has made a "big parade of peace times" in "The Crowd," which will have a three day run commencing Thursday at the World Theatre.

The grim horrors of war which formed the background of "The Big Parade" are lacking in "The Crowd" but there is a background of everyday struggle for very existence that is not as spectacular as war but every bit as interesting.

Since Vidor entered the picture industry years ago it has been his ambition to make a great special production for the millions of picture goers who form the great middle class of humanity. To depict upon the screen the daily struggle in the uphill battles of life where a man cannot even resort to arms in his desperation but has to struggle with heart, soul and body against an enemy which never gives way so much as an inch. Vidor has attained his ambition in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Crowd." Just as he dwelt on the little bits of human interest in "The Big Parade," he has dwelt upon them again in this great picture of peace, the story of which he wrote.

There is no spectacular background of pomp—no booming of guns, no citations for bravery nor decorations for unusual feats upon the field. But there is the same desperate struggle against an implacable enemy—poverty.

Every picturegoer will possibly see himself but many of his friends. The picture does not put its reliance upon the great happenings of life but weaves a story of romance and struggle from the little everyday occurrences.

Eleanor Boardman is seen at the height of her career as Mary.

Ye Ed can't overlook what folks are saying about Larry Gray and Dolores Del Rio, even if it ain't so and they are only good friends.

SMILE IS GREAT ASSET TO BEAUTY.

Marceline Day Advises Women to Practice Before Mirror.

Some faces are beautiful in repose, but not all. Yet even the most unattractive face becomes interesting, when it is animated and smiling, according to Marceline Day, leading lady in Buster Keaton's latest comedy, "The Cameraman," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which is showing to-day at the World Theatre.

"Therefore," says Marceline Day, "it behooves the woman who desires beauty to cultivate a good smile and use it often. Many people are afraid to smile. Sometimes this is due to self-consciousness. This can be climaxed by standing before a mirror and smiling. Anyone will quickly notice how much better they look. Of course, care should be taken that the teeth are in good condition. They must be kept white and shining, and this can only be accomplished by using a little soda on the tooth brush.

"Although a smile should be meant and should come from the heart, there is such a thing as cultivating a pretty one. This takes just a few minutes' practice in front of the mirror, and is well worth the time spent in gaining it. See that your eyes do not close when you smile. If they do, practice keeping them open. Although this may be strained, it does not detract from the real meaning of the smile, but simply makes it more attractive.

"THE AWAKENING."

Moving Drama of Romantic Alsace.

"The Awakening," coming to the Star Theatre on Thursday marks the first appearance of Vilma Banky as a star in her own right. In this story of thrilling romance in Alsace, Miss Banky, previously famous as the co-starring partner of Ronald Colman, reaches the heights of screen recognition.

"Two Lovers," "The Night of Love," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "The Magic Flame" and "The Dark Angel" with Ronald Colman, as well as "The Eagle" and "The Son of the Sheik," with Rudolph Valentino, have previously established Vilma Banky as one of the most popular picture actresses on the screen.

"The Awakening" reveals Miss Banky in the role of a simple Alsatian peasant girl meeting her first love in the days just preceding and immediately after the outbreak of the World War.

The conflict of emotions between this lovely peasant and the dashing German officer, who having been attracted to her as a passing fancy, only to discover that he is deeply in love with her, makes "The Awakening" a tremendously moving story. Hated by all the villagers who have always idolized her as their symbol of beautiful purity and whipped out of the village by her wealthy suitor, she flees from her shame, leaving her lover with the impression that she has committed suicide.

How the pair meet again and how the very man who whipped her out of the village is the means of their salvation is skillfully developed in the story.

EXCITING FILM.

"The Girl From Chicago."

"The Girl From Chicago," which will be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Star Theatre, is a drama of the most thrilling type.

Mary Carlton leaves her Southern home and comes before-the-war-time father, to come to the city to free her brother from the clutches of the gang which has placed him in danger of execution. Keen, impelled by her great love, Mary enters the underworld, becoming known as "Molly," the girl from Chicago.

Here she meets and is loved by two men, both of whom she believes to be crooks. One is dapper and well-favored. The other is Big Steve Drummond, who is in reality what Molly believes him to be. Characters of the tenderloin corps, and the hedge-podge of the city, surge about Molly, and the pathetically weak figure of the brother whose life is at stake. The old father, back in Dixie, must be kept in the dark as to his son's distress, and the boy must be free.

After many hair-raising adventures Molly accomplished all she set out to do, winning incidentally the heart of the dapper gent, who is not a crook after all.

FLORENCE VIDOR.

Calls Gardening Beauty Aid.

Take care of your own garden if you would be beautiful. This is the advice of Florence Vidor, Paramount star. It comes from a woman who practises what she preaches.

At least an hour a day in the garden among the flowers will help any member of the fair sex to retain her charm, figure and will keep her brain beautiful and active, she avers.

"For the past eight years, I have been taking personal care of my flowers," Miss Vidor says. "I devote much of the morning to this work when I am not in the studio, and spend from 7 to 8 o'clock in the garden when one of my pictures is being filmed."

"Planning a garden and then cultivating it permits a woman to keep in the correct environment. Woman is synonymous with beauty, and such an atmosphere aids a great deal."

"It keeps your mind active and takes it away from work. It permits the body to relax and that is the time, when exercise is most advantageous."

"Bending over and plucking a weed, or hoeing the ground gives me just the exercise that I need. Of course, I do play tennis a lot, but that is rather strenuous, especially when I am in the midst of a picture."

Miss Vidor's gardens are considered by floriculturists to be among the most attractive in Hollywood. They were laid out and planted by the pretty star, and each flower is a pride, so to speak.

Miss Vidor plays the role of Gail Grant, tempestuous American heiress, who tries to tame an Italian prince in Venice, in "Honeymoon Hate" which is the attraction at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon to-day.

IRON-WILLED HE.

When iron-willed He meets steel-clad She and they marry—and He tries to bend Her to His will while She tries the same tactics on Him, "Honeymoon Hate" flies in at the window while love shoots out by the door. Married folk, newlyweds and those who hope to attain connubial bliss will enjoy "Honeymoon Hate." It is a Paramount comedy in which Florence Vidor is starred at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon, to-day.

MENJOU A MUSICIAN.

Dancing shadows, a symphony orchestra playing softly, a curtain rising while the orchestra crashes into a flood of melody, and Adolphe Menjou is wielding the baton.

The prince of boulevardiers has turned musician and seems to be as much at home at the helm of an orchestra as he is in making suave love to some Parisian beauty in a continental boudoir.

Menjou recently made his debut as SPECTACULAR FILM.

Huge Production of Beauty and Charm.

When Cecil B. De Mille made his famous picture, "The Ten Commandments," his ancient Egyptian settings in that production were hailed as the most massive ever seen in any photoplay. It was believed that they could not be surpassed for charm, but this has been disproved.

"Made for Love," Leatrice Joy's new picture, rivals it if it does not surpass De Mille's famous tale of the Deedee in the spectacular. Huge sets were constructed, both at the studio and in the Mojave Desert, where Paul Sloane directed the picture. The extensive research conducted for "The Ten Commandments" was utilized for a second time to make the Egyptian background technically perfect and spectacularly impressive, and with the added quality of Leatrice Joy's appealing personality.

Although modern Egypt in the setting for the greater part of the story, written by Garret Fort, there is a colourful insight into the days of the Pharaohs, which provides an opportunity for many attractive scenes.

"Made for Love" will be shown at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon, on Tuesday.

an orchestra leader on the Paramount studio lot in Hollywood where a complete theatre set was erected for scenes in his latest starring picture "Serenade" which comes to the Majestic Theatre shortly. Two hundred extras were used for the audience and 18 dancing girls, headed by Lina Banquette, appeared on the stage.

"MADE FOR LOVE."

Leatrice Joy's New Picture.

When Nicholas Ainsworth, Egyptian archaeologist, discovers an ancient cup in a tomb, inscribed, "Life is brief and made for love."

A wealth of treasure is found in the tomb of the dead lovers and it is removed to a place of safety.

Juan Ainsworth arrives, only to find that her husband is too engrossed with his archaeological labours to pay any attention to her, which makes her resentful.

When Prince Mahmoud Bey, who is secretly plundering the ancient tombs, and who fears that Ainsworth's operations will injure him, plots his downfall, while he pays attention to Ainsworth's wife.

Ainsworth and his wife, while looking at a book giving the story of the ancient lovers, seemingly are transported back into old Egypt under Pharaoh's rule.

The brother of Pharaoh, who is conducting a Princess to his brother's palace, realises that he loves her, and takes her into his arms.

Pharaoh's spy, who sees this, reports to Pharaoh, who orders him to be beheaded for bringing evil tidings.

The lovers appear before Pharaoh's throne and drink poisoned who at the king's command, and they die at his feet.

Pharaoh places the bodies of his victims in a royal tomb and calls down the curse of Isis upon anyone who dares disturb their eternal sleep.

Jean, angered by her husband's indifference, rides into the desert and falls into the hands of Bedouins, only to be rescued by the Prince.

Jean overhears the plot to entomb her husband and escapes from the Prince's palace.

Then come the opening of the inner chamber of the tomb, the finding of the double sarcophagus, and the explosion which dooms them to deaths.

In the tomb Jean and her husband come to a realization of their terrible predicament, as the candles one by one flicker out, revealing the fact that their air supply is gradually burning away.

News of the affair reaches the friends of the Ainsworths and the rescue work is begun by the "Three Romans" and others.

The love of Jean and her husband is renewed as help arrives.

The picture will have its first screening at the Majestic Theatre on Tuesday.

LIFE'S AMBITION

Many men and women suffer through inability to realize their ambitions. In "Zero," the first National Pathé British picture, which will be coming to the Majestic Theatre, we are able to follow a case of this description.

An author who is desirous of writing real literary works is compelled to keep his nose to the grindstone of clean popular fiction to satisfy his wife's ever-growing need of money. He finally is able to publish a book written in his best manner, but does so under an assumed name. This non-involvement later provides him with the opportunity to return to zero and start life afresh.

The manner in which this transfer occurs is dramatic in the extreme with results of a most exciting nature. The part of the author is played by Stewart Rome, our leading British star; Fay Compton, a great favourite with all cinema-goers plays opposite him.

Jack Raymond directed this tremendous British production.

How a Musician Was Guiled.

Success was too much for him! It's the old, old story. That of wholesome homespun crinolines and the lure of silk and satin. That of the poor, poverty-stricken musician who had to struggle for years in order to get a hearing, of the lovely girl who became his inspiration and finally his wife, and the flaming creature who carried him away after fame, had given him its fraternal hand-clasp.

Franz Rezi and his wife have come to a parting of the ways after two short years of married life. The ceremony took place just after "Gretchen," one of the really immortal love songs, had been composed. It was dedicated to the woman who had dedicated her life to him.

They were happy, as happy as two newlyweds can be. His mind was on nothing but the music which welled up from his soul, while her only wish was to see Franz succeed. He did, beyond his or her wildest dreams. What had always seemed a distant mirage became a reality.

Gradually, the distance between them grew. Neither realized it but—it was there, a vast, over-increasing void. Then came the night on which the hundred and fifteenth performance of Rezi's opera—flowers, speeches, applause, curtain bows with the star. And in a balcony seat, alone and unknown to her husband, her eyes full of love and pride, sat Gretchen, weeping.

Finally, the door did open and lighting his way through admirers, envious Franz, laughing, triumphant, on his

WILLIAM AUSTIN.

Antics to Amuse Audience.

Now that his name is the newest among featured comedians on long term contract, Paramount is waiting no time in putting William Austin to work.

Austin's latest role is that of Banning-Green in "Honeymoon Hate," Florence Vidor's new Paramount starring production, which will be showing at the Majestic to-day.

Austin was assigned the new part following his sensational success as Professor Spangle in Bebe Daniels' "Swim, Girl, Swim."

The role of Banning-Green is not unlike that of Spangle. It calls for an eccentric characterisation, a Briton seeking the hand of the impetuous American heiress, Gail Grant, played by Miss Vidor, who goes to Venice and marries an Italian prince to tame him.

arm the exotic woman his music had made, the star of the play. He may have seen Gretchen or, he may not. They entered a luxurious limousine, and Gretchen, unable to believe her eyes, her brain whirling, was swallowed up in the crowd. Then—

But go to the Majestic when Adolphe Menjou's new Paramount picture, "Serenade" is screened. The story, that of a composer who lived his song of love, in considered the finest vehicle Mr. Menjou has ever had. Harry D'Albade D'Arrest directed the picture.

Pickle was left, but quickly made up lost ground. Boxing Eve led all the way, and comfortably staved off a challenge by Winsome Stag to win by two lengths with Young Pretender third. Pickle was gaining ground at the finish, but never wholly recovered from a poor start.

They passed the stands in this order, but shortly afterwards Empress Hall was done with, and Chivalrous, which started badly began to creep up. Blue Boy "came again" near the Rock, as did Town Hall, and the field entered the straight well bunched. Chivalrous then cut away from the crowd to come through and win nicely by 1 1/2 lengths. Town Hall was narrowly beaten out of second place. Chivalrous ran very well, and should account for more races on this form. The Tiger was the favourite, but did not show up at all. Chivalrous and Lobster Bay were next best backed.

Snafell disappointed once again here, Mr. Frost riding him hard, but the pony doing no better than third. Shanghai Beau went into the lead about half-way round, after Teuchit had made an early burst and dropped out. The Beau was a trifle ahead entering the straight, where Sonny Boy challenged, to come in winner half-a-length ahead. Mr. Harriman rode a strong finish on the winner. Snafell was a big favourite, but gave his worst performance to date, the "electric" finish not being in evidence this time.

The Collection of Autographs

["An Autograph Collection and the Making of It," Lady Charnwood; Ernest Benn, Ltd., 15/-.]

To the average person the collection of Autographs means obtaining the signature of some famous man, woman, or child and nothing more, either by meeting the person or by writing and asking for the signature. With the exception of a very few cases such signatures are valueless in a true collection, and are merely indications of enthusiasm or perseverance. The true collector will spare a bare signature if it is possible to obtain either by influence or payment a complete letter or collection of letters written by some famous celebrity. Lady Charnwood preaches this gospel in her latest book, and she is qualified to speak seeing that she is in the forefront of autograph collectors. She gives seven good reasons proving that a series of letters instead of a single signature is the object to be attained and probably the most important of these is "There is the obvious fact that the more we learn about the great ones whose letters we collect the more knowledge we shall obtain of the history of their time and the actors in it, and the more literary, in the true sense of the word, we become."

Lady Charnwood first tells us how to collect and illustrates her arguments with examples taken from her own experience. She suggests methods of starting, of grouping, of filing and of indexing a collection, and also gives us an idea of the comparative value of various types of letters.

In Chapter VII Lady Charnwood says that she begins the hardest part of her task—the endeavour to justify her faith in her system of grouping her letters. She shows us her groups and the various letters in them. From the late Stuart period they run in chronological order to modern times, each era having sub-groups for writers, poets, historians, artists, etc.

A chapter on foreign letters and a final talk about habitations memories completes a book that, being the first authoritative publication by a first class collector on the subject must become a necessary part of an autograph collector's library.

Apart from its technical value the letters printed in it will be of more than passing interest to anyone who reads them.

The illustrations are good, and the whole edition is one that enhances the reputation of Ernest Benn, Ltd., as publishers of nothing but what is first class.

CATTLE RUSTLING.

["The Deputy Sheriff," by Clarence Mulford; Hodder and Stoughton, 7/6.]

Bob Corson, owner of the JC ranch, is also Sheriff of the district and decides to make Willow Springs his headquarters, since it is from that place that he can best deal with the epidemic of cattle rustling that is prevalent. He realises that it will be impossible to cope with it himself because he is too well known and arranges with his right hand man, Nueces, to act as a Deputy Sheriff and to remain unknown at Willow Springs.

The cattle stealing is being put to the credit of a Mexican, El Toro, but Corson who knows the man, realises that the culprit is to be found in Willow Springs. Nueces descends upon Willow Springs like a punitive expedition and the round up of the rustlers proceeds apace.

Although it would be hard to say that this is Mr. Mulford's best book, it brings with it the memory of all his old heroes, Hopalong Cassidy, Buck Peters, Red Connors, and that quick shooting bunch of Bar 20. There is less violent action in this book but, nevertheless, it is good.

CHAMPION OF LIBERTY.

["Life Of John Wilkes," by O. A. Sherrard; Allen & Urwin, 10/6.]

This is an excellent book, and should do much to vindicate the famous champion of liberty who defied the time-servers of George the Third. The career and character of Wilkes were all extraordinary; and, while our author does not condone his offences against the moral law, he proves that instead of being a Communist, or demagogue, as many to-day imagine him to be, Wilkes was a great champion, a lover of peace, and the man mainly responsible for much of to-day's freedom of the Press and the right to sit in Parliament when elected.

Few men have lived such a varied life and triumphed so signally over cumulative disasters as John Wilkes. To have been outlawed by the Chief Justice and then to come back to London and become Lord Mayor—"the best Lord Mayor for a hundred years"—is surely a unique performance. Wilkes was a friend of Pitt, who denounced and then exposed him, of Johnson, "Junius," and other celebrities, a great journalist and raconteur, a fearless man, a duellist, a rapscallion and loose liver, true to his friends and principles, unfaithful to his wife, and devoted to his daughter.

Much contemporary history and gossip appear in these pages, and we get interesting glimpses of Chatham, Horace Walpole, etc. The trouble with the New England States and Wilkes's strenuous efforts on behalf of the Colonists are clearly described, thus making Mr. Sherrard's three hundred pages as interesting to Americans as to Britons.

An enjoyable and informative book!

SMITH'S "LEGAL FORMS FOR COMMON USE."

This well-known work, first written as long ago as 1864 by the late James Walter Smith, LL.D., is now issued in a revised form for the ninth time, the present editor being Mr. J. D. Casswell, M.A., Barrister-at-Law (Edinburgh Wilson, 12s. 6d.). Additions and amendments have been made, as rendered necessary by recent Parliamentary and judicial legislation, including the Companies Act, 1929, the result being as useful to readers, legal and non-legal alike, as its predecessors have been. The forms given comprise about 300 precedents, with introductions and notes arranged under the following heads: Negotiable instruments, securities, receipts and acknowledgments, partnership, master and servant, landlord and tenant, arbitration, county court forms, conveyances, marriage articles and settlements, wills, and miscellaneous forms, with a chapter on stamps.

BURGTHEATER.

Dr. Anton Wildgans and His Work.

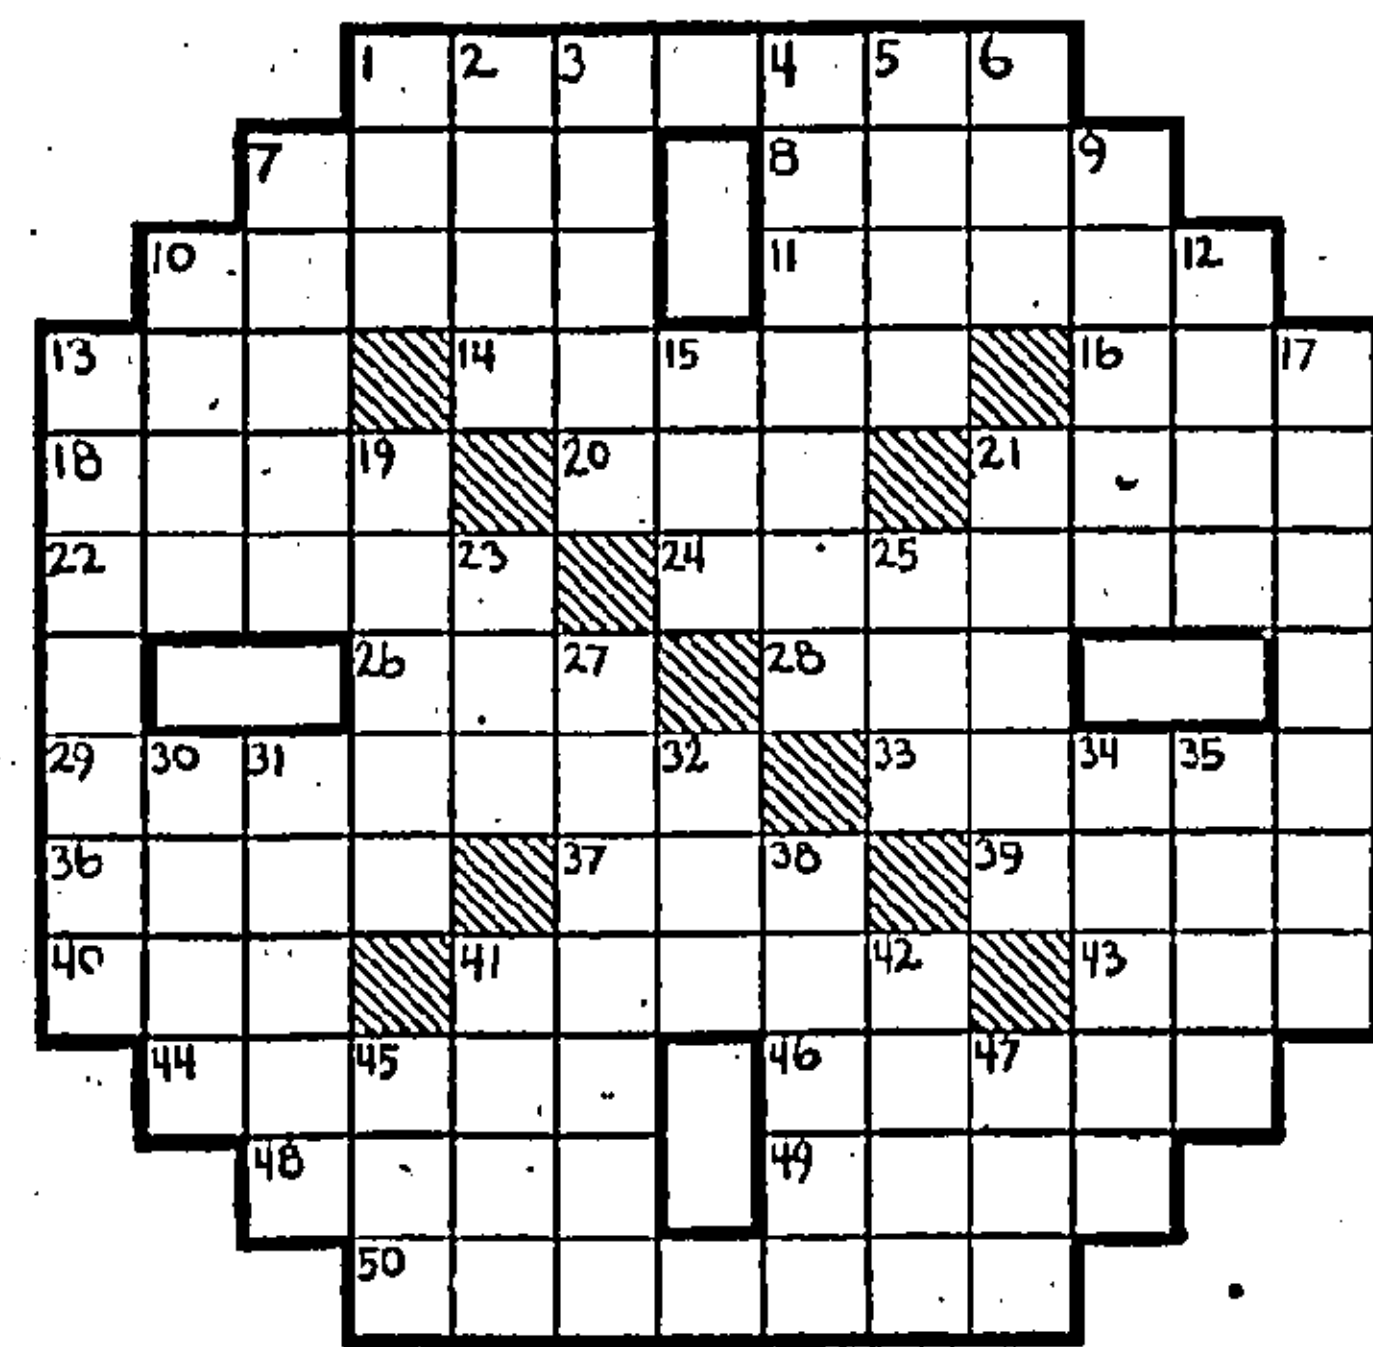

The appointment of Dr. Anton Wildgans, the well-known Austrian author, as director of the Burgtheater, after endless disputes, is received with satisfaction. Wildgans, although a dramatist, has so far done his best work as a poet. The appointment means his second tenure of office, for he managed the Burgtheater from February, 1921, until July, 1922, but resigned, finding it impossible to carry his artistic ideas and ideals into effect. He now wishes to revive the classics, but also to perform modern leading authors, Austrian, German and foreign, and to make of the Burgtheater some kind of "international stage."

Unfortunately, Wildgans is not in good health, and his recuperation will take several months, which he intends to spend at a sanatorium. He will take up his duties in July next, but his real activity can hardly begin before the autumn. He has been engaged for five years.

Wildgans started as a Socialist, but has developed into a patriot, and is one of the few writers of Vienna imbued with great love and genuine understanding of the Austrian soul, so utterly different on many points from the German. Thus his fine epic poem, "Kirbisch," the story of a gendarme, is typically Austrian, and so is his "Music of Childhood," describing with great fervour his love of Vienna. On New Year's Day a remarkable speech of his on the Austrian spirit, conspicuous by its fine optimism, was broadcast.

"FROM 'HAMPTON BEACH.'"

The sunlight glitters keen and bright,
Where, miles away,
Lies stretching to my dazzled sight
A luminous belt, a misty light, Beyond the dark pine bluffs and wastes of sandy gray.

The tremulous shadow of the Sea!
Against its ground
Of silvery light, rock, hill, and tree,
Still as a picture, clear and free,
With varying outline mark the coast for miles around. . . .

I sit alone, in foam and spray
Wave after wave Breaks on the rocks which, stern and gray,
Shoulder the broken tide away,
Or murmurs hoarse and strong
Through mossy cleft and cave.

What heed I of the dusty land
And noisy town?
I see the mighty deep expand
From its white line of glimmering sand
To where the blue of heaven on bluer waves shuts down!

ENGINEERS EXPLAIN.

Manufacture of Straight Eights.

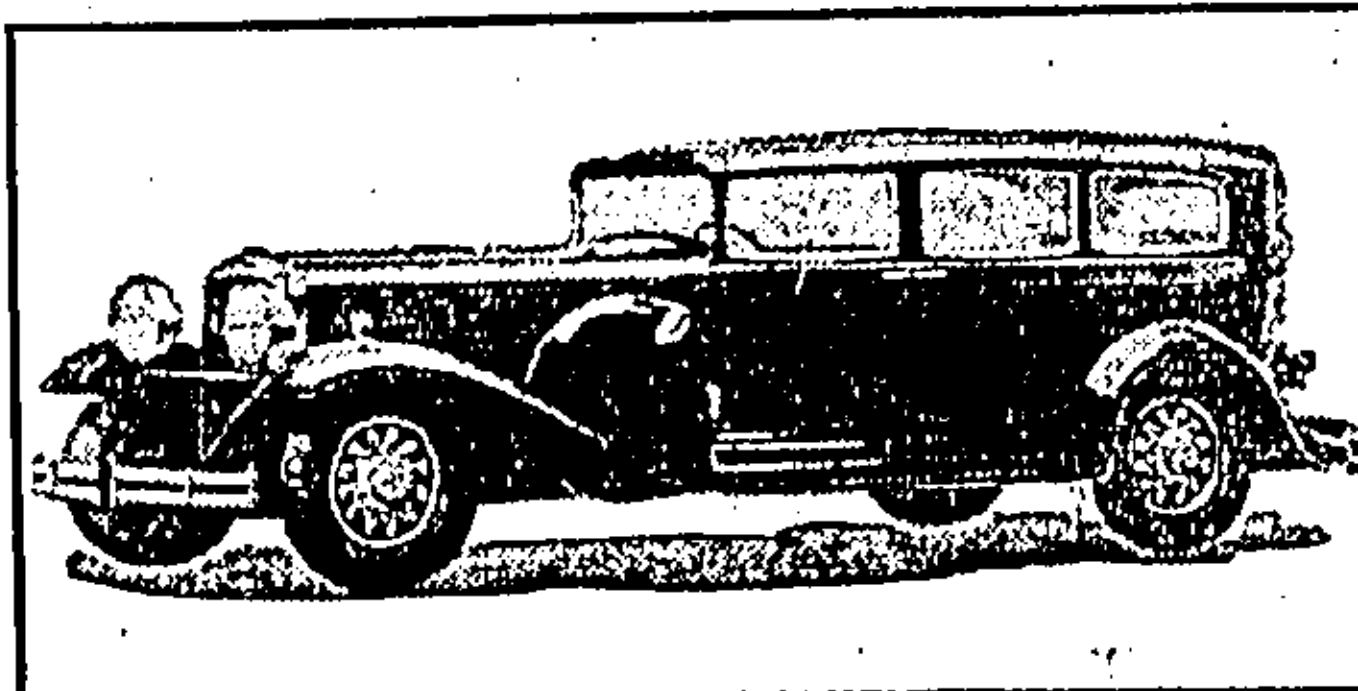

New York, Feb. 26. Better roads, for which the ever-increasing popularity of the automobile was responsible have, in turn, caused the public to constantly seek better automobiles in which to travel upon them as a means of reaching or returning from their destination more easily, more quickly, and more comfortably.

The basic requirement in these regards has been power that is both greater and smoother, and the logical method of producing this lay in the direction of more cylinders. It is for this reason that so many prominent manufacturers are entering the 8-cylinder field. To make this more clear, it should be mentioned that there are just two ways of getting more power from an internal combustion engine; increasing the size of the cylinders or increasing the number of cylinders.

It is easy to understand that the use of larger cylinders calls for heavier explosions, and to counteract this, it is necessary to increase both the size and weight of the crankshaft, as well as many other engine parts. In this way, nothing is gained in smoothness or flexibility. In fact, this method was considered out of date with the coming of six cylinders in place of four cylinders, and now, the six cylinder engine is considered by many leading engineers to be both inadequate and out of date.

Greater flexibility, which should go hand in hand with greater power, can only be obtained by the use of more cylinders. This is because with smaller cylinders the power impulses are lighter, but come closer together, and it is obvious that greater smoothness is thereby obtained. This also means less gear shifting, more responsive acceleration, greater pulling power (particularly in mud or sand) and better performance on hills. In the Straight Eight engine the power impulses melt or merge into one another to produce a constant, silky stream of power, that provides staid pulling and far less vibration.

This greater smoothness of the Straight Eight is very noticeable indeed at low traffic speed, as is also the more responsive acceleration with much less gear-shifting. The superior low-speed pulling power of the Straight Eight is also highly appreciated on steep hills and it is easy to understand that with the power impulses coming closer together, there is a steadier pull with very much less tendency of the motor stalling.

The next great advantage of the 8-cylinder principle, as perfected by Marmon engineers, is its unquestionable tendency toward longer life because of the fact that there is less strain upon the motor. Then there are such additional points as less gas to explode in each cylinder, which means less shock, less burning of the valves, which are smaller and lighter, and less strain upon the valve springs. The smaller cylinders are far less apt to distort or lose their roundness and the decreasing of engine vibration naturally means less strain on the chassis and the body. There is less liability of screws and bolts becoming loose, less likelihood of electric wiring being damaged in this way and less shaking of comparatively delicate parts.

As to economy, it is a basic engineering principle that the higher compression of the Straight Eight engine reduces the amount of gasoline consumed in actual delivered horse-power, because as the piston heads, being smaller, absorb less heat, the gas may be compressed to a higher degree before firing which results in greater efficiency—every particle of gas being utilized. This greater compression, incidentally, serves as a brake in going downhill and thereby results in less effort for the driver, to any nothing of less wear and tear on the brakes.

The foregoing are some of the basic reasons why the Marmon Motor Car Company decided in 1928 to concentrate the whole of its facilities upon the development and manufacture of Straight Eight automobiles. To-day, with nearly four years of experience

The mainspring of human action is the eternal quest of all mankind for happiness.

Given life, which is fundamental, and liberty, which is essential, a man's primary and ultimate concern, as long as life endures, is the pursuit of happiness. So is woman's.

People will pay high for it, and in the last analysis it is at the bottom of every sale made, from the time Mother Eve traded her homestead for the bite of an apple.

People are buying happiness all the time. They are constantly on the alert for it. It takes different forms, but one will always buy the thing that is thought to contribute to it.

Almost everything that satisfies human aspirations, the instinct for happiness, takes the form of something that will do a thing easier, better, more economically or more efficiently. When a man can get something that will do one or more of these things, he can get something that is a means of or will contribute to happiness, the ultimate thing he is after.

We have an oil—Gargoylle Mobiloil—that will add to your happiness because it will make your engine deliver maximum power more easily and better than other motorcar engine lubricants, and at the same time it is more efficient and economical.

"Very Well," you say. "SHOW ME." Gladly will we prove to you that Gargoylle Mobiloil will do all we say it will do, but first drain off the old oil while the engine is hot, and refill to proper level with the correct grade of Gargoylle Mobiloil. Then you will know what true motoring happiness is.

BUICKS

The world-famous Buick chassis and Buick's smart new Bodies by Fisher! An unrivaled combination! Providing the highest degree of motor car performance and all-round motoring satisfaction, over the greatest number of miles!

The more thoroughly you compare Buick with other cars, the more clearly you will understand why more than 2,000,000 people have bought Buicks—why men and women are buying from two to five times as many Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200—and why they have purchased more Buicks during the few weeks this brilliant new car has been on the market than in any like period in Buick history.

See the new Buicks and arrange to buy one. Six of the 14 luxurious body types, incorporating all the famous Buick superiorities, are available at prices ranging from $1225 to $1295, f.o.b. factory. All available on the extremely liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Buick's 49-horsepower Valve-in-Head engine is the most powerful engine of its class in the world. It is famous too, for unrivaled smoothness, economy and timing. It incorporates such modern engineering advancements as counterweighted crankshaft with torsion balancer, carburetor heat control, positive pressure gas pump, and triple seal against water.

Buick's new frictionless steering gear imparts matchless steering ease throughout the entire turning range, while the new Buick Road Shock Eliminators absolutely prevent transmission of road jolts and jares to the driver's arms. This feature which makes a tremendous contribution to driving ease and roadability.

Buick's famous multi-disc clutch, too, reveals marked superiority. In addition to being far sturdier than those of conventional design, it imparts exceptional smoothness, due to its special facing which insures gradual engagement of the driving and driven surfaces.

Buick's famous torque tube serves two vitally important functions. It not only carries the driving thrust, leaving the rear springs free to cushion the car's progress, but also forms a major unit of the Buick chassis seal. Every moving part of the Buick chassis—from fan to rear wheels—is fully protected against dust, dirt and water, assuring maximum operating efficiency in any weather.

New, longer rear springs, in conjunction with four new Lowley Duo-Damper Shock Absorbers, impart a superior degree of riding comfort. These two vital comfort factors work together in perfect harmony to check both bounce and rebound over the roughest roads.

*The engine in the 124- and 137-inch Buicks develops 49 horsepower, and that in the 118-inch Buick 40 1/4 horsepower.

"DANGEROUS." Victimising the Poor Man.

"Whilst the Road Traffic Bill is still being debated in Committee in the House of Commons, several aspects of the proposed penalties for dangerous driving should receive very careful consideration. One of the most important, says the Light Car and Cyclecar, is that which relates to monetary penalties, which, as the Bill reads at present, are unfair in that they signify one law for the rich and another for the poor. It is grossly unfair, for example, that there should be set penalties which a rich man could pay and dismiss the matter from his mind, but which would reduce a poor man to penury unless he would face imprisonment. A system of fines is apparently the only alternative to imprisonment and cannot, therefore, be eliminated in fairness to all classes, however, the fine imposed on individual offenders should vary according to their means."

NEW ERSKINE.

Called Best Motor Value.

The Dynamic New Erskine is receiving the most enthusiastic reception by dealers in overseas markets ever accorded a Studebaker product.

Cables and letters of praise are arriving daily at the Studebaker home offices—accompanied by record orders for this dynamic new car.

The new Erskine offers every Studebaker dealer a real opportunity in his market. It is large—both in appearance and dimensions. It is powerful—possessing champion performance characteristic of Studebaker motor cars. It is more than competitive in price.

Unapproached in Value.

In short, the Dynamic New Erskine is the best value in a motor car ever offered by any automobile manufacturer.

But no matter how attractive the Erskine is in appearance, how perfectly it performs, how evident its value—it will not sell itself! The Dynamic New Erskine must be presented to the public persistently and intelligently.

The new Erskine alone presents dealers and salesmen with an unparalleled opportunity for sales and profits. Added to this new car are three great lines of seasoned eight, refined and improved—against which competition offers new and untried eight; plus a complete line of buses, trucks and commercial cars. Studebaker dealers are entitled to a substantial increase in business for 1930, because this complete line of merchandise enables them to tap the greatest range of buyers in history. To dealers who mix this merchandise of outstanding quality with a fighting spirit in merchandising, 1930 will bring a most bountiful reward.

"Will Outsell Competition"

"We will outsell all competition with this car," said Otto Bruun, of the C. Fris-Hansen Co., Copenhagen, Denmark, after inspecting and driving the new Erskine at the Studebaker factory following the New York Automobile Show in January. "It is a big car for the money. It has a wonderful motor and the long wheelbase and springs give wonderful riding comfort. It has the best pick-up of any car I have ever driven."

After seeing the Erskine, C. Fris-Hansen, senior partner of the Danish firm, placed an initial order for rush shipment of 66 cars. He anticipates a 60 per cent. increase in sales in Denmark with the new Erskine.

British Laud Erskine.

A cable of congratulations on Erskine appearance and performance was received from Studebaker Distributors, Limited, new British distributors, following arrival of the first Erskine in London. This opinion is all the more noteworthy since it comes from an organization headed by a board of directors which acts in the same capacity for Henschel (1928), Ltd., England's largest motor car distributors.

Marcel Aador, veteran distributor in Lausanne, Switzerland, on receiving the first Erskine, cabled: "After trial we may say we are very much satisfied and are convinced of its success."

In Cuba, the new Erskine is the best value on the market, according to the Metropolitan Auto Co. The first shipment received in Havana was sold almost immediately.

Approved in Orient.

H. S. Honigsberg & Co., new distributors in Shanghai, cabled as follows: "Erskines arrived. Beautiful job. Very pleased." This company recently severed a connection of 13 years as Buick distributors to sell Studebaker and Erskine cars.

The Hong Kong & Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., Hong Kong distributors, cabled as follows on receipt of the first Erskine: "Dynamic New Erskine just unpacked revelation of improved value. Sales should soar."

In Japan a sales increase of 100 per cent. is expected with the new Erskine, which is highly satisfactory in appearance and performance, according to cable advice from the Yamase Automobile Co., Ltd., distributors in Tokyo.

Satisfactory Demonstrated.

Stevenson, Romagosa & Co., Barcelona, Spain, and the Internationale Automobil Maatschappij, The Hague, Holland, veteran Studebaker distributors, cabled their enthusiastic approval of the new Erskine. "Congratulations on the new Erskine, which does honour to Studebaker manufacture," was the message received from Barcelona. The sales possibilities of the Erskine is emphasised by this message from The Hague: "Dynamic New Erskine introduced at Amsterdam Show. Most attractive car on exhibition. Booked more orders than competitors."

In South Africa, as in other sections of the world, the new Erskine is attracting attention as an outstanding value. "Erskine well received," cabled Atkinson Motors, Ltd., Johannesburg, Studebaker distributors for more than six years.

Lightweight Engines Used.

"The possible chances of success of 'Miss England II' in the British International Trophy Races next August are greatly enhanced," says The Motor Boat, "by the official statement which was published last week concerning the weight and power of the Rolls-Royce engine fitted in the seaplane which won the Schneider Trophy contest last year, for it is similar to the two units which will be fitted in 'Miss England II.' According to this statement,

NATURAL MARKET.

For New Six and Eight-in-Line.

(By C. W. Matheson, General Sales Manager, Dodge Brothers Corporation.)

With a new, amazingly low-priced Six, Dodge Brothers re-enters the motor car price field where its outstanding reputation in the industry was established. With a new English-in-Line of commanding value it invades a new and fast-growing field. With these two new cars to offer as companions to the present Dodge Six and Dodge Senior, the company and the world-wide dealer organization look forward to 1930 as the most auspicious period in the history of this great institution.

The introduction of these two remarkable new cars marks a most fitting observance of Dodge Brothers' 15th anniversary. The influence of design and engineering that has produced dependable motor cars for years will begin at this 15th milestone to spread to a vastly broadened motor car market. The high principles that have caused every Dodge product to earn increasing good will, and the name to become a synonym for dependability and integrity everywhere, is as zealously guarded in the new cars as it has always been in the past.

Hundreds of thousands of motor car drivers throughout the world are anxiously waiting to welcome the new Dodge cars. A definite, promising market for both the new low-priced Six and the outstanding Eight-in-Line has existed for some time. It is the natural outgrowth of the popularity and prestige that has always attached to the Dodge Brothers' name.

Value for Money.

There are coming into the price class of the new Six thousands of persons who are familiar with the Dodge reputation and therefore logical prospects for the modern, six-cylinder car bearing this name. Other thousands will come into this group with an open mind, seeking the greatest possible value for their money. The outstanding merit of this new car alone will attract its full share of these careful, intelligent buyers.

Thousands of drivers of the present Dodge Six are ready today to graduate to the new Eight-in-Line class. Dodge owners have always been "repeaters." A large percentage can afford, and would prefer, larger, more luxurious automobiles, but they invariably turn to another Dodge because they know it to be a dependable, economical car. This class will be eager to advance to the commanding value, beauty and performance of the Eight-in-Line. Thousands of other eight-cylinder enthusiasts will join them. There is a distinct tendency toward the straight-eight type of power plant, and this style of car bearing the name and the engineering heritage of Dodge Brothers, is bound to meet with an instant and pronounced success.

The addition of these two new lines will alter but little the position of the present Dodge Six and the Senior in the current market. Both these products have a definite following, and their known qualities of durability and performance have already tapped a fertile sales field.

Record Business Expected.

Both at the factory and in Dodge dealer establishments throughout the world, preparations have been made for a record volume of business during 1930. General business conditions in the United States, as appraised by both government and industrial authorities, amply warrant the optimistic outlook for the next twelve months. In the export field, the most representative line of cars in the history of the company will unquestionably surpass all former marks.

The new Dodge Sixes and Eights are now being displayed at the Showrooms of the local distributors, the South China Motor Car Co., of 33, Des Voeux Road, Central.

The engine develops 1,000 b.h.p. and weighs only 1,500 lb., or about 8 lb. per b.h.p. Moreover, this is not the limit, and the builders consider that higher speed and power are still possible.

"When it is considered that the remarkable Napier Lion engine which Sir Henry Seagrove used in 'Miss England I' developed 900 b.h.p. and weighed 836 lb., or .93 lb. per h.p. it will be gathered that the saving in weight with the new motors may enable a distinctly higher speed to be reached. Moreover, it means that the total power in the boat will be in the neighbourhood of 4,000 b.h.p., and it is doubtful whether any American engines can approach this power or power-to-weight ratio. In Miss Catalina's boat 'Catalina II' also there will be a considerable improvement over last year, for the new Napier engines to be employed develop 1,000 b.h.p. on a weight of 1,180 lb. or .87 lb. per b.h.p."

CAR SALES.

Importance of Appearance.

"No one now thinks of denying the importance of bodywork as a factor in promoting or preventing sales," says the Motor. "The fact that car purchasers were taking an ever-increasing interest in the body was emphasised in this Journal years ago when many car makers preferred to think that good looks were of small importance. From being more or less a piece of furniture, built by carpenters and upholsters, the motorcar body has developed into an engineering job built in fits to standard dimensions."

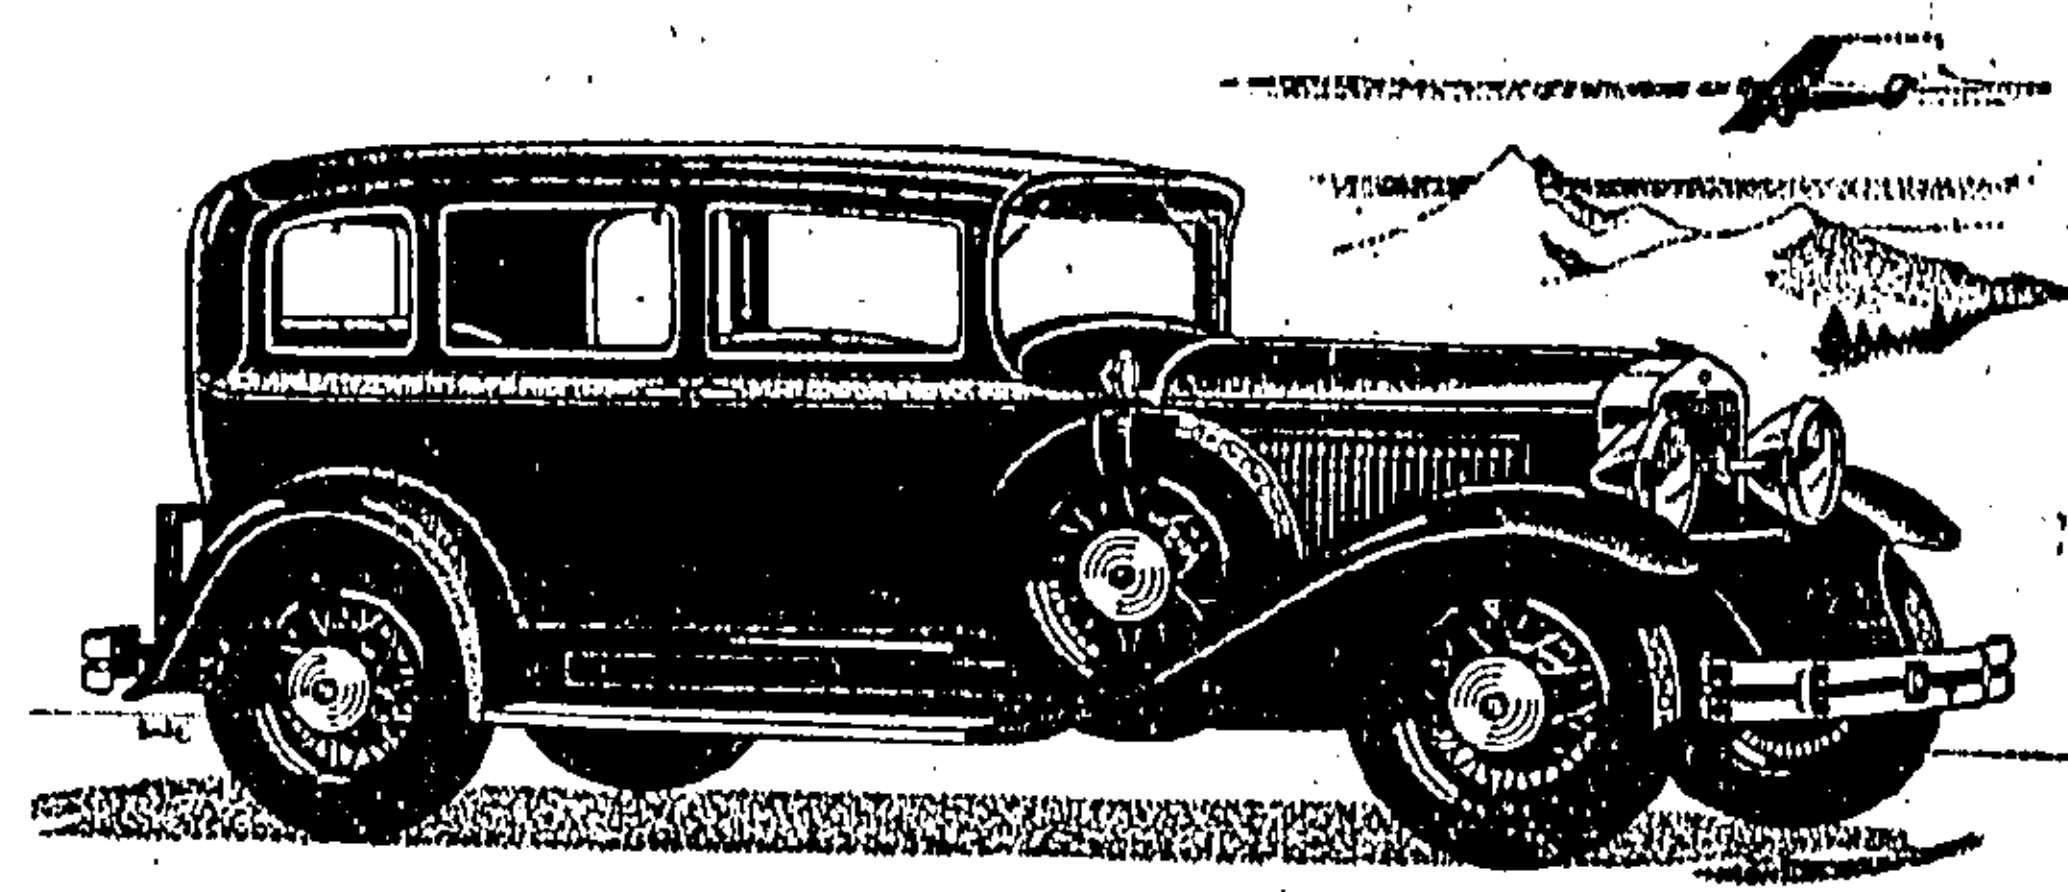

"It would be foolish to suppose that quality in design is even within sight. Every day fresh materials are being developed which enlarge the range from which the go-ahead body designer can make his choice."

"The 1930 season has already shown that the motoring public appreciates boldness in colour schemes and general shape; something distinctive, in short, that breaks away from convention to a certain extent without being too bizarre. We think that car manufacturers should show less timidity in tackling this problem of lines and appearance, and should give greater encouragement to men with artistic talents combined with an engineering training."

"It should surely be possible, for example, to develop new body shapes which, in addition to having smart lines, would offer less wind resistance than do current designs. It is, after all, rather absurd that at normal cruising speeds some 75 per cent. of the power developed by the engine is expended in overcoming windage alone, and this has an important bearing upon petrol consumption."

CAR ECONOMIES.

Increased Consumption and Prosperity.

A closer economic study of automotive questions should be based not only on production figures but also on those showing the economic value of motor vehicle operation and use. In America, for example, investigation has shown that the labour of only one man is required to every 14 automobiles produced; whereas traffic control, operation, maintenance, and construction and improvement of highways for the same 14 vehicles when in use require the services of 3 men. Thus every 5 motor vehicles in operation create a job for one man. By the production in 1929 of 5,600,000 motor vehicles, employment was created in the United States for some 400,000 men. Sale, operation, servicing, repairing and garaging of the 26,000,000 motor vehicles registered in the United States, in addition to necessary highway construction, require a labour force of not less than 4,000,000 men. It naturally cannot be ascertained how many of this number support families with their wages. However, when we include those who rely for their economic support upon wage earners in the automotive industry and allied activities, the total figure is increased by several million. No country, therefore, which desires to create as many jobs as possible can afford to ignore the motor vehicle.

Significance of Transport.
The significance of motor transport is reflected not only in the employment situation but also in the level of production costs, which determine the extent to which the time saving motor vehicle will be used. The merchant, for instance, who cannot take full advantage of his working hours through lack of modern transport, is unable to do business on even terms with competitors who can reach their market quickly and comfortably. The greater efficiency made possible by rapid transport naturally increases productive capacity and income. Therefore, the user of modern transport agencies, accomplishing more in a given time than the man who does not use them, is entitled to demand a greater income. Development throughout the nation of greater efficiency is an outstanding

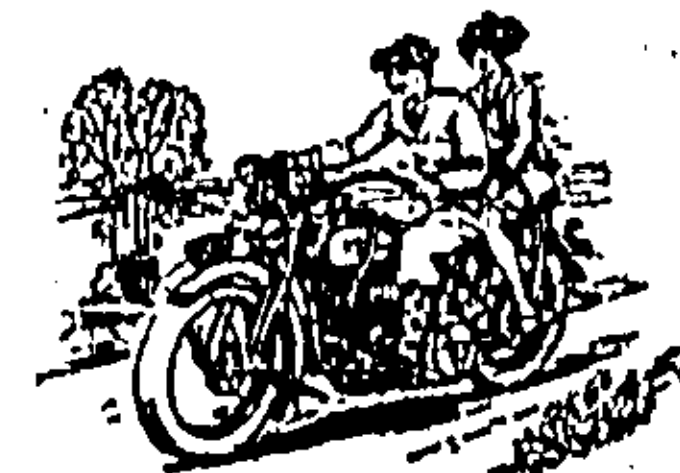

PETROL SUBSTITUTE.

Swiss Experiments with Wood Fuel.

Switzerland is making great exertions to find a substitute for motor petrol. Experiments with alcohol have proved to be very successful, and for all military purposes except flying this "national fuel" is now being used. It is not yet in general use because the importation of absolute alcohol is a State monopoly. But after April, when new alcohol regulations are to be introduced (in case the plebiscite is carried) alcohol is expected to replace petrol on an increasing scale. Meanwhile, further experiments are being carried on with other fuels, such as compressed gas, electricity, and wood coal, as the authorities are determined to save some of the money—more than twenty million francs—paid for imported petrol every year. It seems possible to get a very good fuel from wood.

A Low Tax.
The use of motor transport is also of great importance to the National Treasury. The revenue from the 26,000,000 motor vehicles registered in the United States total $800,000,000 annually from which sum current expenditures for interest and amortisation of highway bonds are made. An outstanding reason for the volume of this income is that the tax per vehicle is fixed so low that it does not burden the less wealthy classes, nor discourage them from purchasing motor vehicles.

A country fully aware of these economic advantages will logically endeavour to promote the use of motor transport, in order to improve the welfare of the working population, of commercial enterprises and of the national treasury.

MOTOR NEWS

From Road & Showroom

CORRESPONDENCE

TRAFFIC CONTROL.

(To the Editor of "Sunday Herald")
Sir,—I should like to voice my appreciation of the Castle Peak Road since the "banking" has been carried out on the latter section. The designer thereof deserves to be encouraged, and it is an agreeable surprise to realise that Hong Kong is really progressive, as I believe there are few roads of this type in the world, i.e., specially designed for fast motor traffic.

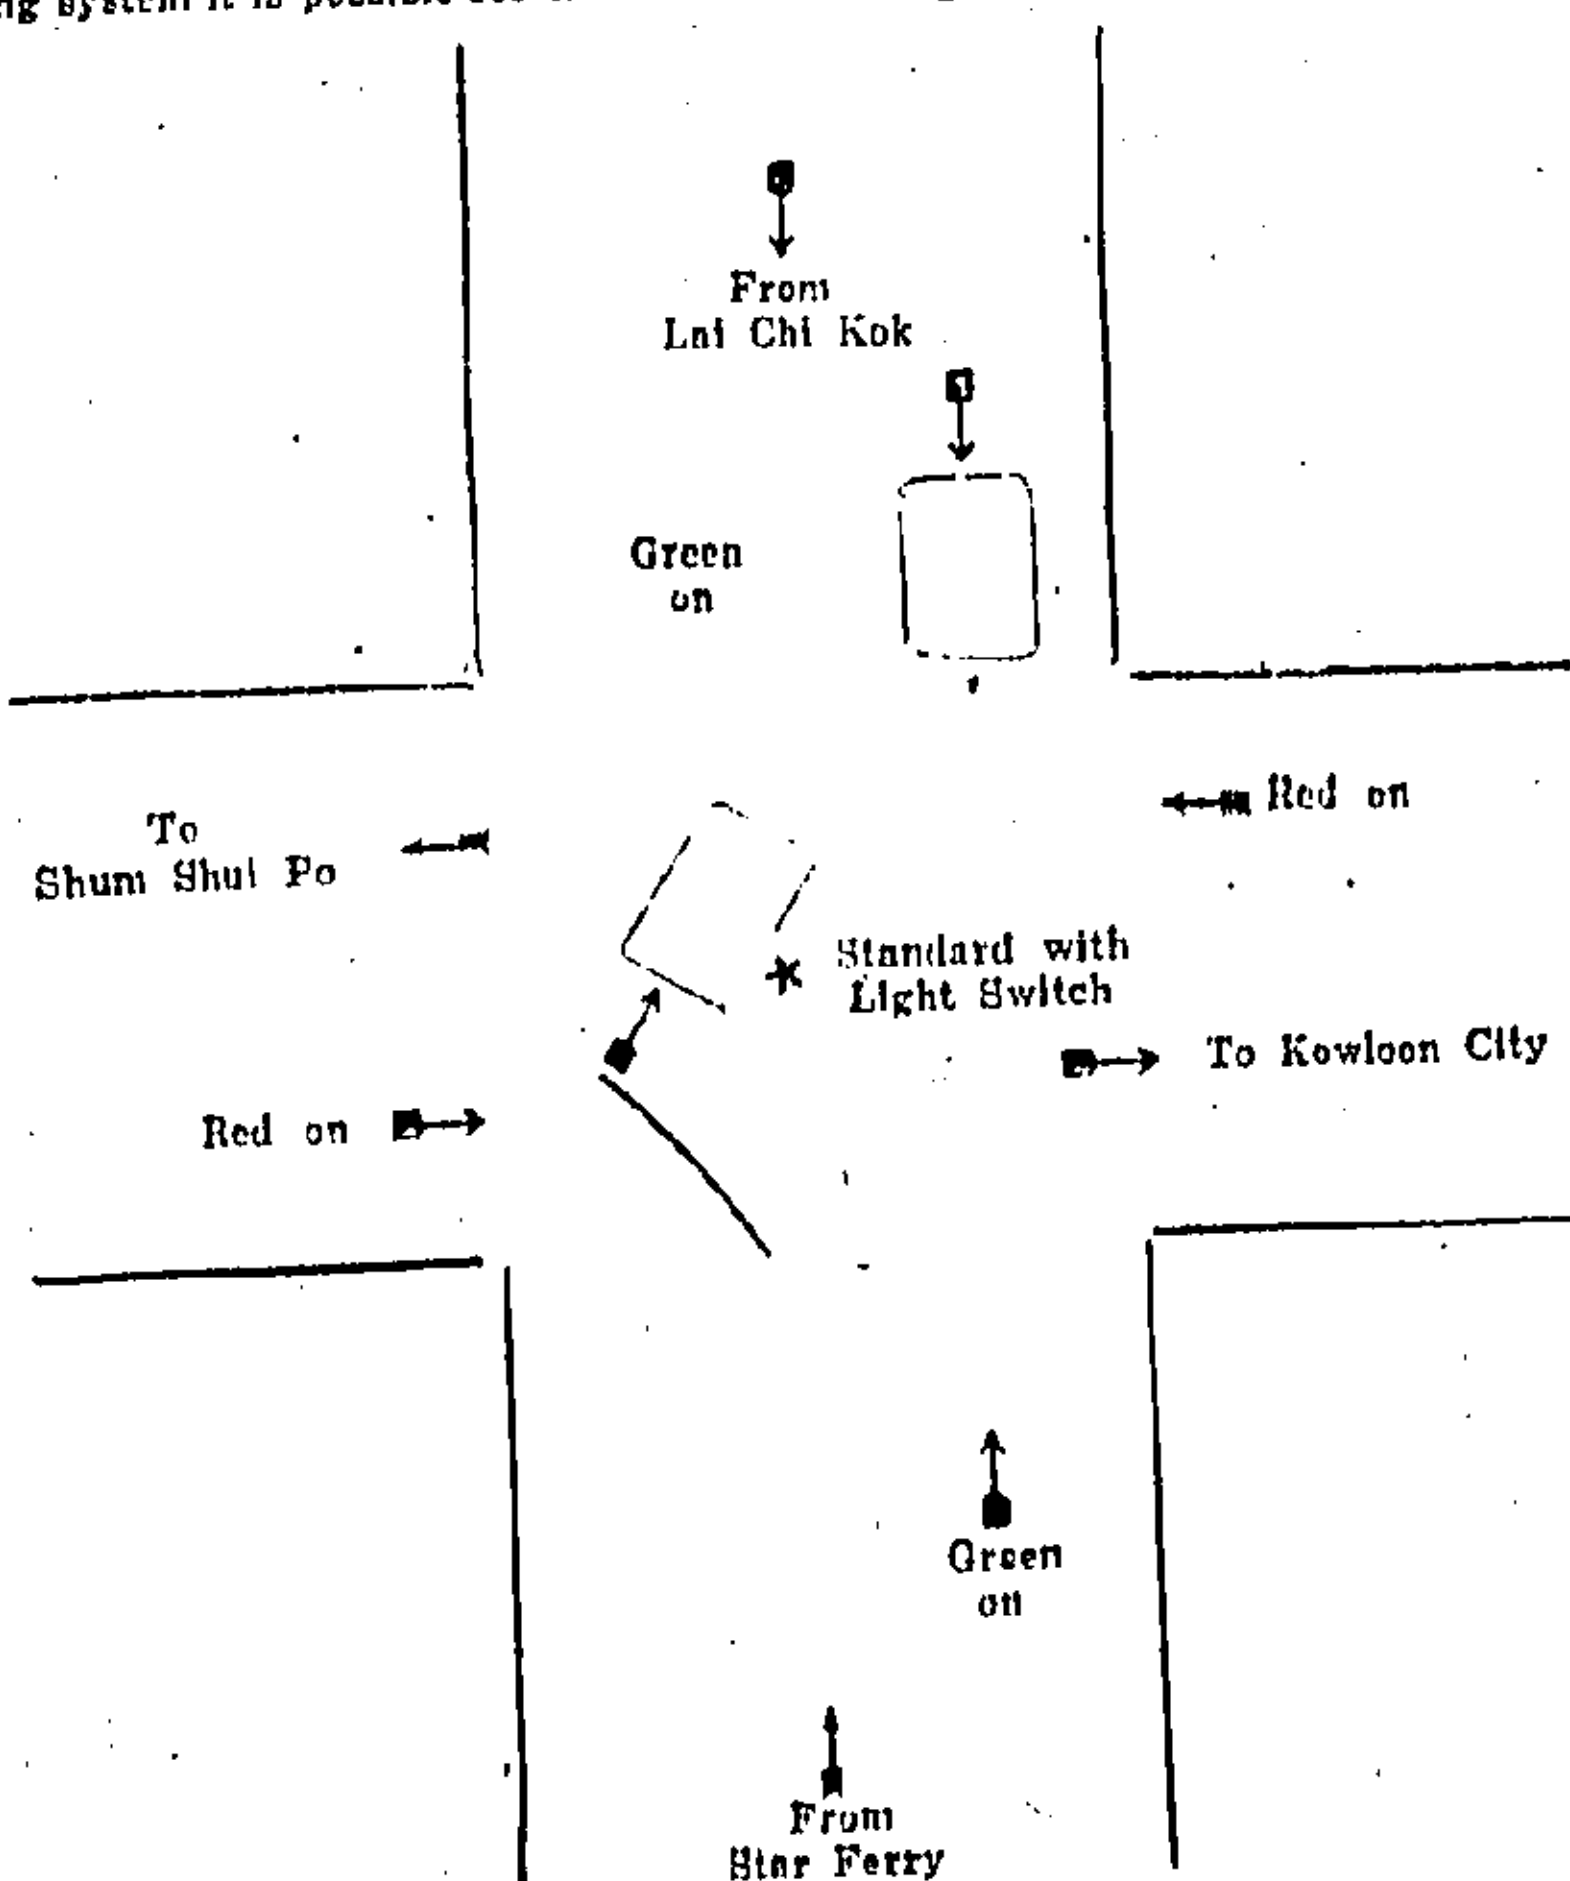

At the same time I wish to point out the fallacy of the Traffic Control Lights at the Junction of Nathan and Prince Edward Roads. With the existing system it is possible for cross traffic to proceed, and both to be in the right. For example—Consider a car coming from Lai Chi Kok to the Star Ferry with a green light towards it, and another proceeding from the Star Ferry to Kowloon City. They both have the right of way because the latter car will have passed the red light before it takes the turning. The two will then be liable to meet at right angles unless the latter driver uses his discretion, and how many do? It is said that anyone can criticise, but few rectify, so in order not to lay myself open to this charge, perhaps I may offer a suggestion.

From the accompanying diagram it will be seen that in the example quoted the latter car will face a red light as it takes the corner around the standard, and will stop, allowing the former to proceed in safety, and following traffic carry on ahead.

Yours, etc.,
"NOCORP."

Hong Kong, April 10.

A two-control switch should be installed capable of switching on Greens and Reds at diametrically opposite corners.

Skyscraper Garages.

Two garages in Chicago are to be twenty-eight storeys and twenty-nine storeys high and will house 1,300 cars.

Corporation Orders.

It is a notable fact that in practically all cases where Albions are purchased, repeat orders follow as a matter of course. The Albion Company, whose works are near Glasgow, have recently received further orders for passenger chassis from Aberdeen Corporation and Grimsby Corporation, both of whom have placed several orders for Albion buses during the past few years.

The Prince in South Africa.

During the recent stay of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales in Capetown he made use of a Hummer "Snipe" car and although a driver was provided the Prince himself drove the car most of the time and expressed himself as highly delighted with its performance.

The Prince is well known as a keen motorist and thoroughly enjoys a burst of speed whenever possible.

It will be remembered that during his tour in Africa the Prince and his party will use only British cars.

Manchester's Buses.

The Transport Committee of the Manchester Corporation has recommended the purchase of a further 15 Crossley 38/110 h.p. "Sixes." This is the fourth repeat order received by Crossley Motors, Ltd., and makes a total of almost a hundred Crossley buses for Manchester streets.

These are mostly their latest type six-cylinder models, specially designed for passenger transport, and comprise both single and double-deckers.

"The Dictator".

In the United States, the name Dictator has been used for several years in referring to the lowest priced line of Studebaker cars. The buying public knows the Dictator is a Studebaker, and that it is a leader. In response to the continued requests of the largest overseas dealers, the name Dictator instead of Director has been used since January 1 in overseas markets. This line of cars leads competition in performance, style and value. It is the dictator of cars in its class.

Not Only London.

There were 27,156 traffic accidents in Berlin during the twelve months last year.

A Staple Industry.

It is stated that 100,000 people in Italy make their living in the automobile industry. The car exports are the fourth largest of Italy's exports, and one in every two cars is sent out of the country.

Traffic Increase.

According to a return issued by the Ministry of Transport there were 2,196,714 licences current during the quarter ended September 30, 1929. During the corresponding period of 1928 the total recorded was 2,052,539.

A Repeat Order.

Crossley Motors Ltd. have just received a third repeat order from the Racecourse Betting Control Board for eleven 30/70 h.p. four-cylinder six-wheeled vehicles.

These vehicles will be used for transporting electrical equipment for use in connection with the "Totalisator."

The Racecourse Betting Control now owns 26 Crossley 6-wheelers.

My Aunt!

The municipal pawnshop of Paris received no fewer than 769 cars in pledge during 1928. It appears that the services of "my aunt," as they term "my uncle" in France, are chiefly resorted to in the winter months, when owners have less need of their cars than in summer, and pawn them in lieu of paying garage charges. The loans, by the way, averaged £22 per car.

A Walk-Over.

In Wayne County, Michigan, where Detroit is located, Ford car registrations for November were more than twice as great as the next nearest car. The Ford total was 954 cars as compared with 371 for the next nearest. The difference in commercial car figures was even greater. The Ford total was 249 compared with 65. During the first eleven months of 1929, Ford car registrations in Wayne County were 43,714, as against 16,000 for the next nearest car, out of a grand total of 111,074 for all makes.

Motor Patrols in France.

A special squadron of military police equipped with motor cars patrol the chief automobile routes of France.

A Good Market.

New Zealand has spent the sum of £26,000,000 during the last four years on motor cars, petrol, oil, and accessories.

Official Cars.

It is understood that the Foreign Secretary has refused to undertake that British Ambassadors and Ministers shall use only British cars. It is stated, rightly or wrongly, that the difficulty of obtaining spare parts renders this impracticable.

A New Paradise.

Apparently Barcelona is the ideal spot both for car-owners and those who travel by taxi. If a private owner has a puncture or is otherwise "on panne," he has merely to beckon to a taxi driver, who will dismount and effect the necessary repair, merely charging the amount recorded on his time meter! Taxi drivers, moreover, accept no tips, nor charge for distance if summoned by telephone, and they help with luggage.

Belated.

Under the title "Tyres for Rikishas" the official organ of the Rubber Growers' Association, the Bulletin for January, has the following paragraph:
"The Japanese are fitting their rikishas with pneumatic tyres, and are ordering the tyres in Britain."

A rubber manufacturer states that the orders are increasing, and although a special size of tyre has to be made, the new line is a profitable novelty.

"The important feature of the business is that the orders are coming to this country instead of going to America, and it is not an unreasonable hope that satisfied users of British rikishas tyres will tend to buy more British goods of other kinds."

As a matter of fact, well over a decade ago, they had rikishas in Malaya fitted with pneumatic tyres.

A Strong Brotherhood.

It is said that there are over 30,000,000 cars in the world.

A Motorist's "Talkie".

An amusing gramophone record is of Norman Long singing "My Little Austin Seven."

No Shortage in Sight.

There are 2,000,000 acres of land in the United States alone producing oil at the present time.

Stolen Cars.

According to reports of the Colorado State Auto Theft Department 95 per cent. of all cars reported stolen are recovered.

Tourist Traffic.

It is calculated that no less than $163,418,000 was spent in 1927 by motoring tourists in Canada from the United States.

Strict Physical Tests.

Out of 3,936 men examined by a doctor for employment as "bus drivers," 44 per cent. were rejected; and of the rejected men, four-fifths were unaware of any physical disability.

Interesting Qualification.

Candidates for the Paris police force stand a much better chance if they can produce a driving licence, the Prefect of Police having given notice that in future when vacancies occur preference will be given to men who can drive.

Cops Wear Traffic Lights.

German traffic policemen in Muehlhausen wear what amounts to warning lights on the back, according to the National Automobile Club. They wear medals of red glass on the back of their belts which are illuminated when automobile headlights shine on them.

Problem of the Roads.

Since the War highway expenditure in Britain has increased by approximately 65 per cent., due mainly to the higher standard of wages and the corresponding increased price of materials. Notwithstanding the fact that they are spending £1,000,000 per week on roads, Britain still has over 100,000 miles of highway to rebuild to carry the ever-increasing traffic.

Fuel By Pipe Line.

A report is to hand that the Shell-Mex Company and the Asiatic Petroleum Company are discussing the possibility of supplying fuel by pipe line to the Swiss winter resorts.

May Be The Bushings.

When the front wheels begin to wobble, first check the wheel bearings. After that have a look at the king pin bushings. If they have been underlubricated they will have worn. And because they are quite exposed to all the dirt kicked up by the wheels, they may have been underlubricated even when the motorist was confident otherwise.

The highest honour awarded in the "Prix d'Honneur d'Elegance."

a beauty contest for automobiles held near Paris recently, was won by a Studebaker President Eight roadster.

British Car Exports.

Mr. Graham, President of the Board of Trade, states that the total number of touring cars and commercial vehicles and complete chassis of United Kingdom manufacture, exported from the United Kingdom during January, 1930, was 3,101, as compared with 4,281 during January, 1929. No reliable deduction, he says, can be made from figures for a single month. The figures for the whole of 1929 were 42,321, as compared with 32,540 for 1928.

British Character of the Ford.

Sir Percival Perry, presiding on March 7 at the first ordinary general meeting of Ford Motor Company, held at the Hotel Cecil, Strand, W.C., emphasised the British character of the company's products. He thought examination would show that the Ford car is more honestly British than any other offered in the British market. Plims at Dagenham (Essex) were going ahead according to programme and it is expected to commence manufacturing operations in some departments this year. Contracts have already been placed for over £1,400,000, and others are being negotiated to the value of over £1,000,000.

NEW WHIPPET FOUR.

Leads in Low Priced Field.

That the interest of the public in the four-cylinder car is as strong as ever before in the low priced field is indicated in the wide public acceptance of the new Whippet. In the presentation of the complete Willys-Overland line at all of the automobile shows held so far this year, the interest of the public in these smart cars was as marked as in any previous year.

Indications are that the Whippet Four, which provides the Willys-Overland organization with its coverage in the lowest priced field, will prove as popular throughout 1930 as in the nearly four years that have passed since it made its initial appearance.

The Whippet Four holds a conspicuous position in motordom. Introduced in June 1926, it provided a revolutionary change in its price class and was admitted by years ahead of its time, not alone in price but in design, performance and engineering features. Because the Whippet was so far advanced over cars in its price class, it was unnecessary to make any major changes in the following years, so successful was the new car. However, various refinements and minor changes were made from time to time to maintain the position it had won in the low priced field.

Many well informed men in the automobile industry declare that the remarkable success of the Whippet Four and its permanency as one of the company's leading products stand as a distinct tribute to the engineering efficiency of the Willys-Overland staff. It is pointed out that many of the features first introduced in the Whippet Four have since been adopted, not only by cars in the low priced field but by higher-priced cars as well. The features which have made the Whippet an outstanding vehicle in the lowest priced field are big four-wheel brakes, full force feed lubrication, silent timing chain, extra long springs, high compression engine, "Finger-Tip" Control, oversize balloon tyres, large roomy bodies, unusual gasoline economy, smart lines and colours.

Hundreds of thousands of Whippet fours have been in the hands of owners since the first Whippet was introduced and have accumulated millions of miles of service. It is a notable fact that during all these years, the Whippet has established a reputation for low operating and maintenance cost, bringing a new conception of economy to the low priced field.

Coupled with the Whippet Four is the Willys Six line, which is enjoying a wide acceptance on the part of those buyers who prefer a six to a four. This car has likewise established an outstanding name in the field of the low-priced sixes for performance, low operating and upkeep expense, reliability, smartness of lines and roominess of interiors.

These two lines together with the Willys-Knight 70-B and the Willys-Knight Great Six complete the coverage in the medium and quality car brackets.

"LES PARKINGS."

Very Easy to Make Rules.

Paris is proving that it is easy to pass a decree against leaving cars standing in the street, but very difficult to enforce it. There is a joyous freedom for the motorist in the French capital. He drives up to his office or place of business in the morning, leaves his car unattended until mid-day; he lets it stand outside his restaurant for an hour and a half while he partakes of lunch; it remains in the street all the afternoon; it is to be found in front of his favourite cafe in the evening; and between 8 o'clock and midnight it waits for him close to some theatre or music hall.

When he goes home he may feel disinclined to walk back from the public garage, and the car is left for the night without lights in the vicinity of a gas lamp. Personally, I maintained a car in Paris last winter for three consecutive weeks without putting it into a garage. The police never interfered; the regulation that standing cars should have a light in front and another at the rear is rarely enforced in the main streets and avenues, even the police admitting that "ce n'est pas la peine."

Protests arose when the decree was issued that no cars should be left unattended in a central portion of the city for more than half an hour. Business firms were not at all pleased that motorists should be deprived of the privilege of driving to their establishments in their cars and of leaving them outside while business was being transacted. Motorists immediately demanded that if they were not to be allowed to leave their cars indefinitely they should have parking places.

"Les parkings," to employ the horrible expression which has been incorporated in the French language, are difficult to find. The authorities optimistically promised to provide them, above ground or under ground, and to exact a payment for their use. As the charges were rather high, this did not meet with the approval of the motoring public. Even the firms and associations offering to organize paid parking places did not feel assured of their financial success, for they demanded a guarantee from the municipal council. Meantime, the decree which went into effect on January 1 has not been applied. The underground garages exist on paper only, and probably will never see any further. Only M. Chippie, the energetic chief of police, is determined that the scheme shall be carried through, and even he is willing to modify it.

It is now suggested that the rule against leaving cars unattended shall be applied only from 9 a.m. to noon, and from 2 to 7 p.m., thus making it possible for one set of guardians to be employed for the parking places and leaving the Parisian free to eat his lunch, drink his aperitif in the evening, and attend places of amusement at night without the harassing thought that a policeman is writing down the numbers of his car and preparing an invitation to call at the police station. —W. F. B. in The Autocar.

MARCH OF PROGRESS

"I never like to run more than two hundred and fifty miles a day. I know you don't agree with me, George, but I feel that when you run three hundred or three hundred and fifty you don't really see all the scenery as thoroughly and study the agriculture and other features of the country as closely as you might if you just jogged along at a nice steady forty-five or fifty miles an hour instead of speeding. But he that says it may. We planned to take it easy and not get in before seven-thirty."

"Say, that day was a revelation of progress."

"When I first drove that road it was just a plain, dirty road running through a lot of unkempt farms, and now every mile or so you'd find a dandy, up-to-date, hot-dog stand—some like fog cabins and some like Chinese pagodas or Indian wigwams or little, small imitations of Mount Vernon about ten feet high, and all like that, and stocking every known refreshment for the inner man—hot dogs and apple pie and chewing-gum and cigars and so on and so forth—and, of course, up-to-date billboards and along the road to diversify it, and garages maybe every five miles, and in every town a dandy free auto camp providing free water and wood for the tourists."

"And so many of the farmers quitting their old, toilsome routine and selling apples and cider to the motorists—I asked one of 'em, by the way, how he could keep his supply up, and come to find out he didn't have an apple tree on the place—he got 'em all from a grocery store in the next town. Oh, motoring certainly has made a great and wonderful change in the country!"

"Of course, California has always had a lot of high mountains, which, it's needless to say, were there also long before man came to the trackless wilds, also, of course, the ocean, but still in the old days, even after the State was settled by white and civilized men, there was nobody there to advertise them—to, you might say, correlate them with the rest of our American life."

"But aside from nothing but scenery, what did California have in those days?"

"I've seen it and I know! I've seen beauty spots in California where even twenty years ago there couldn't have been hardly a single human being in sight—some point of interest filled with holy quiet between the eternal hills; and now you'll find there, especially on a Sunday, no less than maybe a couple of hundred cars parked, and all the folks out there laughing and talking and being neighbourly and swapping news from the folks back home in Iowa and cooking hot dogs and waffles and all like that, and looking at the scenery."—Extracts from "The Man who knew Coolidge," by Sinclair Lewis.

UPWARD SWING.

Business Returning to Normal Basis.

Toledo, March 4.

Business in general and the automobile business in particular, are on the upward swing and should be on a practically normal basis within the next sixty days. This is the opinion of Mr. L. A. Miller, President of the Willys-Overland Company. Mr. George M. Graham, Vice-President in charge of sales, and other executives of the company who have just returned from a business trip that covered nearly the entire nation.

"The automobile business always is the first to be affected in any recession of general business and is the first to recover," Mr. Miller said. "All manufacturers are properly controlling their manufacturing schedules and when business resumes on a normal basis this will have the effect of stabilisation in the large automobile centres of the country and will likewise have a beneficial effect on business as a whole."

"My view of the entire picture discloses no alarming condition regarding the automobile or any other line of business. People are buying motor cars as well as other merchandise and will continue to do so in increasing monthly volume until we reach our normal stride which should come within the next sixty days."

"With the general revamping of sales and production policies, careful attention to the used car problem and the close co-operation between the dealer and manufacturer, I am confident that the 1930 volume will equal that of last year. Under the present policies this should produce greater profits for both dealer and manufacturer since the 1930 programme is based on the law of supply and demand rather than on an arbitrary production schedule. This plan is economically sound and will undoubtedly be reflected in a healthier business situation all around."

FORD'S PROJECT.

Likely to Fail for Lack of Labour.

Some warmth of feeling has been caused in Malaya by an interview with Mr. Henry Ford, printed in the local papers, says the Rubber and Tea Quarterly. In this interview Mr. Ford reiterates many of the old accusations against the plantation industry, which may once have been relevant, but are scarcely to the point at a time when rubber is selling around 8d. a pound. He goes on to declare that matters have not been standing still in that quarter of the globe where he, a year or two ago, acquired areas whose reported extent varied from one to three million acres, with the advertised intention of developing the whole as one rubber plantation.

Mr. Ford is still vague about figures, while anxious to apprise the world that somewhere or other in his para preserve planting is actually in progress, and that the company which has these operations in hand is "under contract to plant up a certain fresh acreage every year."

This announcement has not caused the Malayan planter undue anxiety. He is aware that Mr. Ford will achieve a decided tour de force, if he succeeds in obtaining rubber from his plantations at an all-in cost close to the price at which rubber from Malaya or Ceylon is now obtainable.

Though the likelihood of producing Hevea brasiliensis in the Amazon basin (which is, literally, its native heath) is undoubted, suitability of soil and climate are no more than the first steps on the ladder to success, whose further rungs include malaria control and various other health measures, roadmaking, clearing, planting, cultivating, tapping, and such technical processes as are conducted in the estate factory.

None of these preliminary stages can be accomplished without the services of a numerous, well disciplined, and well trained labour force. When they are accomplished, this force will probably have to be augmented rather than diminished if the wheels of rubber production are to be kept revolving.

It has taken Malaya a generation to build up satisfactory recruiting machinery through large reservoirs of Tamil, Chinese, and Javanese coolie labour were available in neighbouring countries. Unless Mr. Ford can overcome the difficulties imposed by an extreme scarcity of labour in the Amazon basin, the success of his plan will be jeopardised. Labour, in fact, will be the crux of Mr. Ford's problem.

NEW FORD RECORD.

Drove 500 Hours Without Stopping.

A five hundred hour non-stop run, establishing a world automobile record, for a half mile dirt track, has just been completed by Ralph Ormsby, jun., and Henry Schlosser of Cincinnati at the Cincinnati Hamilton Speedway.

These drivers, who did not leave their Model A Ford roadster at any time in the course of the 500 hours, covered 14,540 miles.

The previous automobile record for a half mile dirt track was four hundred and forty hours. Ormsby and Schlosser also surpassed the motor-cycle record of 490 hours. The run was started November 12 at 8.25 p.m. and was finished December 3 at 4.25 p.m. The average speed was 35 miles an hour.

"During this run," the drivers wired to the Ford Motor Company at Detroit, "we put the Ford car to every sort of strain possible through all kinds of weather—mostly rain, cold and snowing. And at all times the Ford showed perfect performance."

"We believe the car could have stood another 500 hours of punishment. We feel proud to have set this new world record with the Model A Ford."

They then admitted that it had been an endurance test for the drivers also, continuing:

"We are both feeling fine but very tired and stiff for being in the car for 500 hours."

FOR "NERVES"!

Praise of Motor Cycling.

"There is no gain saying the fact," says "Carbon" in Motor Cycling, "that motor cycling is good for you (if the Guinness people do not mind my borrowing their best phrase), and that fact alone keeps quite a lot of sensible folk on two wheels. Contrary to a rather popular belief, it seems, incidentally, to be particularly beneficial to many men with bad nerves, and I know of more than one shell-shock case after the war whose riding helped to cure him. Anything in the nature of rough-riding, whether in a trial or not, is, of course, magnificent exercise; above all the fresh air, unhampered by a windshield, is beneficial to a really astonishing degree. The compulsory concentration of driving in some way seems to rest the mind and to steady the nerves, and the feeling of superiority over other less fortunate members of the community engenders content."

A SIMPLE ENGINEERING PRINCIPLE GIVES PONTIAC UNUSUALLY LONG LIFE.

It is an established engineering principle that fewer engine revolutions mean a longer-lived car. The Pontiac Big Six makes 330 fewer engine revolutions per mile of road travelled—regardless of speed—than the average car in its price class.

Pontiac is also slightly heavier—enough stronger throughout to assure longer wear and greater safety, wherever extra strength is needed. Pontiac's roomy, luxurious bodies are by Fisher, too—another assurance of long life.

Yet these long-life features sacrifice nothing of Pontiac's speed, hill climbing power, flashing pick-up, and flexibility in traffic.

DOGS AND RADIO.

Europeans' Lives "Made Impossible."

Mr. R. T. Nelson, formerly a Commissioner of Customs, and residing at 26, Cumberland Road, Kowloon Tong, brought a summons in the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning, before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, against Mr. H. S. Chan, of 59, Cumberland Road, for keeping five dogs between April 1 and April 16, which were a source of annoyance to the complainant, owing to the noise which they created at night. The defendant pleaded guilty.

"Whining and Howling."
Addressing his Worship, Mr. Nelson said that the defendant had five dogs which barked incessantly every night from 9 p.m. to five o'clock in the morning. The defendant had two Chinese dogs, which he chained up during the day and let loose at night. He also had three puppies, which he kept in a pen in the rear yard of the house, so as not to come into contact with the other two dogs, which were chained up. It was the puppies which made all the noise, "with their whining and howling."

Ten days ago he wrote a letter to Mr. Chan, complaining of his dogs, but received no reply. Mr. Nelson said that he was a teacher in the St. Paul's School, and that he taught one of the defendant's relatives, and so he was somewhat familiar with the family.

Mr. Chan (defendant) said that his own dogs which were chained up in the day were not "Chinese dogs" but one was a pointer and the other was a Police dog. Mr. Nelson, in cross-examination, admitted that there were four dogs in house No. 30, and two dogs in house No. 32, but said he was positively sure that it was the defendant's dogs which were such an annoyance.

Radio at Dawn.

Mr. Nelson said that he had written to the people next door about keeping their wireless going until one in the morning, and that they responded to his requests. He had also reported a Chinese resident of a house at the rear of his to the Sanitary Department for alleged "stinks," but this was the first time he had complained about dogs. He "wanted peace and quietness, and he was entitled to it."

Mr. Nelson and Mr. Chan, then evidently forgot that they were in a Court, and began a heated argument over wireless, piano playing in the early mornings, and other household questions, which his Worship quickly quelled by telling Mr. Chan that the summons was not over "radio" but "dogs."

His Worship said that it was not up to Mr. Chan to tell Mr. Nelson what to do, for Mr. Nelson had already done the only thing possible and written a letter which was not acknowledged.

Living Impossible.

Mr. Nelson declared that from the foreigners' point of view, living in Kowloon was made impossible with the Chinese and their night life and noisy customs.

His Worship said that he knew for himself that Chinese people slept more soundly than Europeans did!

His Worship convicted and fined the defendant, but told him that he had to find some remedy to abate the nuisance caused by his dogs, and if another action was brought forward by Mr. Nelson or any other neighbour, the fine imposed would be a severe one, because his Worship did not see why, because the defendant was a dog fancier, he should disturb all the neighbourhood.

Lack of Exercise.

The Magistrate expressed his opinion that the reason why dogs barked was because of lack of exercise. He asked the defendant if the dogs ever went out for a walk.

Mr. Chan replied that he let them roam about in the garden and took them out every Sunday to the New Territories for an outing.

His Worship added that that was not a natural life. A dog needed plenty of exercise to make it sleep soundly at night, instead of being tied up all the day long, and allowed to bark or howl at night-time.

CHARITY MATCH.

In Aid of Dependants of Sepoy Victims.

SERVICES v. THE REST.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, accompanied by Mrs. W. T. Southern, has kindly consented to be present at the Charity Football Match in aid of the Dependants of the Sepoy Victims. His Excellency will set the players in motion by taking the kick-off at 5 p.m. on the Hong Kong Football Club Ground next Saturday, April 26.

Their Excellencies the General Officer Commanding the Troops in China, Major General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and Rear Admiral R. A. S. Hill, C.B.E., R.N., will also be in attendance.

Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd., are the generous donor of the match ball, which will be raffled at 10 cents a chance.

Lieut.-Colonel R. G. MacLaine, M.C., and Officers of the 2nd Batta. Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders have kindly consented to their Pipe and Brass Bands being in attendance.

At the conclusion of play Mrs. W. T. Southern will present the Senior League Trophy to the Captain of the successful Chinese Athletic team.

It is the earnest wish of the organisers of this match that all previous "Gate" records for the H.K.F.C. ground will be broken next Saturday.

The following are the Officials and players taking part:—Referee: L. Sergt. Caswell, Linmen: F. Smith and L.S.V. Ness.

The Services: Fletcher, Oliver, Ward, Timberlake, Roberts, Gordon, Van Tromp, Pirsh, Gill, and Dickenson.

The Rest: Clark, Li Tin-sang, Lai Yuk-tat, Hedley, McKelvie, Lam Yuk-ying, Two Kwai-shing, A. V. Gosno, Goldman, Suen Kam-shan and Ip Pak-wa.

Owing to the tie an extra head was played between Wetherpoon's and Ferguson's rinks. The former, amid cheering and the defending din of some infernal machine, got his blow in first, and all the Vice-President's lads and lassies could not shift him. The President thus won the head, the match, and the silver spoons by one shot!

"Making History."

The players and other members and visitors afterward adjourned to the billiard room. Mr. J. Russell, in the course of a little speech of welcome, said:

"I thank you all for your attendance here this afternoon, thereby helping to make a success of the opening of the bowling green. We have had many opening days, but to-day we have made history for Talkoo Club and for the Colony by including ladies amongst the players. (Applause.) The change, I am sure you will agree,

SMART PUNISHMENT.

Mr. E. J. J. Spradbery and his younger brother, Mr. C. W. L. Spradbery, appeared as joint complainants at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, when a young unemployed Chinese was charged before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith with the theft of some motor cycle tools. Defendant admitted the offence.

Divisional-Inspector Marks said that one of the complainants was looking out on the verandah of his house at United Terrace, Ho Mun Tin, when he saw the defendant go up to his cycle, which was in the road, and calmly remove the implements from the tool bag. He informed his brother about it, and they both ran down the stairs and caught the defendant, who attempted to run away.

His Worship pointed out that he always took a serious view of these larcenies from motor cycles and motor cars, and passed sentence of five months' hard labour.

THE NORTHERN WAR

Fighting Begun.

Shanghai, Friday.
A further report indicates that fighting has taken place between the National forces under Wang Ching-yu and the Kuomintang under Liu Yu-ming at a point between Hsuehchow and Linyu on the Ping-Han line. The National forces have retreated to Yencheng, according to plan.

On the southwest sector of Honan, the Kuomintang under Chang Wai-si, finding no advantage to besiege Nishiang, have changed their plan, in order, to attack Checheun, via Sishenkow.

Szechuen Trouble.

Hankow, Friday.
Fighting is reported to have taken place in the vicinity of Chengtu, the capital of Szechuen. The merchants at Chungking have repeatedly wired to various ports to suspend the shipment of merchandise.

The troops under Yang Sen who are pressing on Chengtu, engaged the forces under Luohsueh at Cheyang on April 16. Generals Liu Chuang-hou and Tang Sik-hou are ready to throw in their troops to assist General Yang. In order to overthrow the present military governor Liu.

Due to the sudden outbreak of war in Szechuen General Ho Ying-ching has despatched the gumbao Tsai Yu to patrol the upper Yangtze River and one bridge under the Sung Chao-kuei to strengthen the defence of Yicheng and Fashan on the western border of Hupeh-Szechuen.

Mukden General's Attitude.

Nanking, Friday.
General Wu Tieh-cheng wired from Mukden to Nanking on April 16 that he had succeeded to influence all the Mukden generals to support the Central Government, who, for the time being, however, will remain neutral so as to await the outcome of the present situation.—Canton News Agency.

Yen's Arrest Ordered.

The following is a full translation of the mandate issued by the State Council dismissing Yen Hsi-shan as well as ordering his arrest:

"The rebel, Yen Hsi-shan, being crafty by nature and favoured by the circumstances of the Revolution of 1911, was able to usurp one province (Shansi). But he achieved nothing. Although he was not then countenanced by Yuan (Shih-kai), the late Party leader protected and shielded him in order that he might retain his position.

When Yuan Shih-kai betrayed the Nation, the said rebel, longed for wealth and power, declared severance of relations with the Kuomintang and then petitioned for its suppression in order to ingratiate himself with Yuan.

Then when Yuan was about to declare himself Emperor, the said rebel was among the first to urge him to the measure, petitioning him at the same time to declare a constitutional monarchy.

China Still Prevalent.

BETRAYAL OF FAITH.

Protest at Refuse to Decrease Chinese Councillors.

Nanking, Yesterday.
To-day, the Third Anniversary of the National Government's establishment at Nanking is observed, but there is no holiday.

Dr. C. T. Wang made the following declaration regarding decision of the Shanghai International Settlement Foreign Ratepayers' Association to disallow the increase of Chinese Councillors:—"I am greatly shocked at such decision. It means the continued presence of much diatribe feeling among foreign residents in China. In view of the promises already made, such decision is a betrayal of foreign good faith. I sincerely hope that, while, on the one hand, nothing deplorable will happen, on the other hand, better elements among foreign community will exert their influence in the right direction. The Chinese ratepayers had been encouraged to elect five councillors on the strength of previous assurances. Such a reversal of previous promise is bound to have far-reaching consequences and will not be approved by their respective Governments."

The Wei-hai-wei rendition agreement will be signed late to-night between Mr. Wang and Sir Miles Lampson.

Dr. Wang Chung-hui, President of the Judicial Yuan, entertaining last evening at Minister C. T. Wang's residence Sir Miles Lampson, Counselor General, Consul-General Hewlett, Secretaries Eric Teichman and Stenard Bennett. of grace with the entire people of the Republic of China.

Then Parliament was dissolved and all through the rebellions of the "Tuchuns" and the subsequent "Imperial Restoration" by Chang Huan, the said rebel managed to maintain himself; for he who could be a vassal to "Hung Hsien" (Yuan's ill-fated Dynasty) was not above addressing Pu-yi as "Your Majesty."

During this period, the late Party Leader was launching a punitive expedition against the rebels and his envoys to or through the Province of Shansi were all refused admittance. So, to the end of the late Party Leader's life, the said rebel had never rendered any assistance to the Revolution; but, instead, had obstructed progress.

When the Revolutionary Army reached Anhwei and Shantung, however, the said rebel pleaded to be taken into the fold and the Government, lenient and eager to forgive him in order to enable him to redeem himself by service and in spite of his past faithlessness immediately entrusted to him the provinces of Shansi, Hopei, Suiyuan and Chanhai. Not only did he fail to accomplish anything, but he also proved to be insatiable in his demands. The revolts of Li (Tsung-hai), Pai (Tsung-hai), Feng (Yu-hsiang) and Tang (Song-chi) were mostly due to his instigation. While, on the one hand, he was secretly petitioning the Government to punish and send a punitive expedition against Feng, on the other hand, he was also secretly remitting funds to Feng to enable him to browbeat the Government. The said rebel is, in short, craftiness and falsehood personified.

Guilt of Treason.

If the Government, bound as it is by the instructions bequeathed by the late Party Leader, and at the beginning of the Period of Political Tutelage, further tolerate the said rebel to hold Party discipline in contempt and to bring more calamities upon the country to the encouragement of other rebels, what would be left of the Party and what would become of the State?

Yen Hsi-shan is hereby dismissed from his substantive and concurrent posts and the various Provincial Government and Military Authorities are hereby instructed to apprehend and to arraign him for prosecution so that Treason can be punished and the Law upheld.—Kuo Min.
